Unchanging Mountains. Turmoil and Upheaval. Dictator in Prussia. Bolivia Wants War.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BELLEAIR MOUNTAIN, CATSKILLS, N. Y., July 21.

WE KNOW theoretically that everything in the universe is changing and must some day disappear like the fabric of a dream. The presidents of today, of 100 years ago, and 1,000 years hence will be forgotten, the "great battles of the world" will be as unimportant as so many fights among wolves.

JEANS TELLS you that our sun throws its substance out into space at the rate of 250,000,000 tons a minute. Four minutes hence, when you reach the bottom of this column, the sun will weigh 1,000,000,000 tons less than it did when you began to read.

He proves it, and proves, also, fortunately, that the sun has done this for hundreds of millions of years, can keep it up for more hundreds of millions of years, supplying heat and light in which we may struggle on toward civilization.

BUT ULTIMATELY all must pass away. The sun and the planets, including this little earth, will be dark and cold, waiting for cosmic processes to reconstruct them, usefully, elsewhere in space.

THEORETICALLY nothing lasts, and nothing seems worth while. But theory loses importance when you return to the mountains after a year's absence. You observe no change, no crumbling of the universe among the stone hills, with their veneer of green trees and their roof of blue sky.

EACH MOUNTAIN stands where it did, each tree, nearby, and the indistinct rows of trees outlined against the clouds, along mountain slopes, far away, keep their positions. The sun goes down, leaving its last light on the same peak. The star that follows the sun appears in the same place at the appointed hour, and the big dipper's rim points, as usual, to the North Pole, fixed and unchanging.

You know that many stars in turn become the North Star, as our North Pole swings around the circle, in less than 20,000 years.

But it all seems permanent, in the mountains. No change, except that slowly growing trees cut off, each year, a little of the lower horizon.

FROM THE world beyond the peaceful mountains comes news of turmoil, the most important news from Berlin.

The solemn German, who thought all the exciting news must be "out," by this time, found his city, at 11 yesterday morning, decorated with placards announcing the appointment of a dictator to rule in Prussia with absolute authority, threatening punishment for refusing to obey the dictator or tampering with placards.

VON HINDENBURG, president of the German republic, had appointed as dictator Von Papen, strong in the confidence of the German people. The Prussian cabinet, denying Von Hindenburg's power in the matter, is sent about its business.

FOR A WHILE, one man's will is to replace the effort of the Germans to govern themselves by republican methods. The Hohenzollern monarchy led to disaster and failure; the republic, after long success, under difficulties never before known, confesses failure, temporarily.

The reason given for this change is the inability of Prussia's cabinet to maintain order, and its too great sympathy with Communistic elements.

The dictatorship does not extend beyond the Prussian borders, but it covers two-thirds of Germany's territory.

THT REAL dictator, Mussolini, keeps his machinery in order. Yesterday he dismissed sixteen members of his cabinet, taking two more important offices on his own shoulders. Responsibility does not worry HIM.

WHEREVER YOU look on this rolling earth, trouble meets your eye. Japan is rushing another army to fight the Chinese in Jehol, and financial ruin threatens much of Japan.

Troops from Paraguay have beaten troops of Bolivia in a two-day battle, and Bolivia's people insist on a regular, genuine war with Paraguay. If they consulted a few European nations, they might not be so eager for war.

WE HAVE our own usual worries. A radical leader in Washington's bonus army is arrrested. He promoted a demonstration toward the White House.

Wheat and cotton both declined yesterday, wheat hunting for new low prices. That news is as bad for the Republican party as it is for farmers.

There is one little bright spot in Wall Street's gloomy canyon. Street car stocks, surface, subway and in the air, are stronger. The public is expected to take over the New York City companies, to the tune of hundreds of millions, and that comforts high finance—with stock prices where they are today.

TO CHECK the building of the St. Lawrence waterway, connecting the Great Lakes with the ocean, making every lake city a seaport, would be a calamity. But it is said that Senator Norris may ask:

"Who is to own and get profits from two million horsepower electric that the canal will produce?

It seems inconceivable that power produced by spending the people's money should not belong to the people. But everyone remembers the amusing Muscle Shoals story, and everybody knows that in our country,

Stillman Son Injured, 'Fifi' Escapes Crash

MRS. FOWLER McCORMICK

Mother Hurrying to Hospital in Air Accident

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—Alexander Stillman, 22-year-old scion of the wealthy New York family, was injured last night when the plane he was piloting crashed in a forced landing on the outskirts of Gary, Ind.

Shortly afterward his mother, "Fifi" Stillman McCormick, and her husband, Fowler McCormick, of Chicago, escaped unhurt when a plane in which they were hurrying to his side in a Gary hospital nosed over in landing at Lansing (Ill.) airport, a few miles distant.

After his accident, young Stillman limped across fields to the highway and was carried to Gary by Frank Essmeister, a contractor of that place, who at first mistook him for a robber.

At the hospital young Stillman's injuries were treated and his mother notified. He suffered cuts about the face and head. An X-ray examination was to be made later to determine if there were more serious injuries.

Mrs. McCormick and her husband chartered a plane in which to fly to Gary, but when they found the field would not be lighted, headed for the Lansing port. Their plane nosed over when the pilot misjudged limits of the landing field and landed in a garden plot nearby. The McCormicks and the pilot were not injured and the couple went on by cab to the hospital.

Stillman, holder of a private pilot's license, is the son of James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank. The domestic troubles of his parents were much in the news for several years. The former Anne Urquhart Stillman married Fowler McCormick son of Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, and grandson of John D. Rockefeller, June 5, 1931, sometime after her divorce from Stillman.

Walker to Reduce His $40,000 Salary

NEW YORK, July 21.—(INS.)—Mayor Walker will pave the way for savings in city salaries by offering to cut his $40,000-a-year salary 20 per cent, it was learned today.

At the same time it was learned that the Mayor, addressing the city's 130,000 employes over the radio tomorrow night, will urge them to accept furloughs without pay, the length of the furloughs to equal an 8 or 9 per cent slash.

PRUSSIAN CHIEFS DEFY DICTATOR

SHOW'GATOR AT LARGE IN WOODS

Posse in All-Night Futile Hunt; Fear Reptile's Attack

SOMERSET, Pa., July 21.—A posse today was beating the bushes along Laurel Hill creek in search of a 300-pound alligator which quietly flopped out of its cage last night and disappeared.

The posse consisted of three men, Henry Cottinger, the owner, of Miami, Fla., and two assistants. Last night 100 searched for the reptile, but Cottinger called them off today, fearful that the alligator might attack.

Cottinger searched long through the night for the alligator in the dark woods and twice had his hands on the animal's face. But the alligator hurried off in the dark—hurried off as fast as an alligator can hurry.

The owner believes the alligator will sooner or later wind up in Laurel Creek, which flows into the Youghiogheny River at Confluence.

Nobody saw the alligator go. Cottinger was putting a second alligator through its paces in an exhibition when the idle colleague disappeared. The absence was not noted for possibly a half-hour.

The alligator situation was intensified when word arrived that in Cleveland another, named Spaghetti, had wandered off from his backyard and finally parked on the doorsteps of Mrs. L. W. Wilson's home. A policeman coaxed Spaghetti home.

GIRL IDENTIFIES SLAIN PROWLER

A youthful prowler, shot and killed when he attempted to attack John C. Swan, 46, of 320 Zara street, Knoxville, was identified this afternoon by a girl, whose name authorities withheld, as William Thomas, 321 Michigan avenue, Beltzhoover.

The girl was one of six whose names were found in an address book carried by the youth. She visited the morgue with detectives and told attaches she once had "kept a date" with him.

Mifflin Township police said the youth might be the missing member of a trio wanted for auto stealing. Two companions under arrest in Mifflin Township, the police said, declared Thomas is the name of the man sought.

Swan, who told detectives he fired two shots at the youth when he ran at him with upraised hand clutching a pair of pliers, re-enacted the shooting for police this morning. Nervous and excited, he declared:

"I am too old a man to be attacked by a pair of pliers."

The youth fled after the shooting across the lawn of Prof. C. B. Critchfield, principal of the Knoxville Junior High School. He was found dead two hours later in the rear of the Hilltop Y. M. C. A. Building.

ARMSTRONGS GO BEFORE JURORS

Widow, Daughter of Ex-Commissioner Asked About Gas

The widow and daughter of former County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong were called before the grand jury today to explain the charging of gasoline at the Peoples Service Station, which supplied gas to the county, and, it is alleged, to friends of the Armstrong administration for which the county also paid.

Dorothy, daughter of the late Commissioner, preceded her stepmother into the grand jury room. A county audit of the Peoples Service Station records revealed, according to M. C. Conick, 1,600 gallons were supplied to Dorothy and 54 gallons to Mrs. Armstrong, which were charged to the county.

James E. Routley, former assistant chief clerk in the commissioners office, was the first witness called after Auditor Conick had finished his testimony to the grand jury. Conick was in the jury room from 10 o'clock this morning until 2:30 this afternoon. Routley, charged with 11,000 gallons of gas, was in the grand jury room only five minutes. He explained that 7,000 gallons charged to his wife had been used in the family car and the other 4,000 gallons had been used in the cars of friends and acquaintances.

Armstrong, Jr. and Roy F. Walters, the commissioner's secretary, were among these, according to the auditors.

STATE SENATOR ON HAND

Armstrong's son, State Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., also was to be called before the grand jury. Others included:

Elmer and John Armstrong, no relation, according to the widow; Roy F. Walters, former secretary to the Commissioner; James Routley, former Commissioners' clerk; Edward M. Kenna, former County Road Commissioner and allegedly an officer of the Peoples Service Station; Cedric C. Benz, 347 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon; W. J. Piper, 314 Hazel drive; Susan A. Askey, 5758 Kentucky avenue; A. C. Johnston, 222 N. Sheridan avenue; John J. Gallagher, 699 Sumner avenue, Wilkinsburg; John S. Devlin, 7741 Forbes street; Patrick J. Swift, 405 E. Carson street; H. Doherty, 811 Locust street, and H. A. Trautvetter, 2330 Reed street.

NEW CLUES

Swamped by new clues developing in the several probes he has been conducting before the grand jury, District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced that probably no indictments can be returned before the middle of next week.

Park had planned to have the grand jury make a presentment and indictments of various ward politicians in the tax receipt cases tomorrow, and, if possible, draw indictments in the other cases under investigation at the same time.

Waiting to Testify in County Probe

DOROTHY ARMSTRONG MRS. JOSEPH G. ARMSTRONG, SR HOWARD G. ALLEN

BIBLE SOCIETY FOUNDER DIES

The Rev. Charles H. Pridgeon, 69, founder and head of the Pittsburgh Bible Institute and of the Evangelization Society, widely known through free Bible instruction to students from all parts of the world, died today in the institute parsonage, 12 Congress street.

Born in Baltimore, June 7, 1863, he was educated in the schools of that city, later being graduated from Lafayette College and Princeton Theological Seminary.

For 12 years pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Canonsburg, Pa., the Rev. Pridgeon withdrew from the denomination in 1901 when he founded the undenominational Bible Institute and began faith healing. He established an orphanage at Wexford, Pa., all his enterprises being supported by voluntary contributions.

Missionaries from the institute went out to all parts of the United States and Canada and to Africa and China.

He leaves his wife, his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Pridgeon, of Wexford, and a sister, Miss Ella Pridgeon, a Baltimore school teacher.

Ex-Pitt Student Weds Employer, Rich Widow

Clifford Zieger, former University of Pittsburgh student, today was on a honeymoon following his secret marriage last night to his former employer, Mrs. Robert J. Allyn, wealthy society widow of Hartford, Conn., according to reports from Hartford.

Zieger, whose address was given as R. D. No. 1, Verona, was a student in the business administration school of the university in 1926, '27 and '28.

For two years Zieger has been assistant superintendent on the Allyn estate.

His bride is a Mayflower descendant, and her family has been prominent in the political and social history of Connecticut since its founding. She and her sister, Mrs. Clarence W. Seymour are said to control the largest individual amounts of realty in Hartford.

The couple will sail Saturday from New York for a honeymoon in Mexico City.

Mrs. Allyn is 45. Zieger is several years her junior.

Showers to Loosen Grip of Heat Wave

Humidity Makes City Swelter Although Mercury Is Down

Scattered showers today were the forerunner of relief from the intense heat wave which has dealt death and suffering for the last several days, the Weather Bureau announced.

A sprinkle here and there, this morning, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, likely would be followed by thundershowers this afternoon or tonight, with fair and somewhat cooler weather predicted for tomorrow.

Indications, Brotzman said, were that the wind was shifting from the Southwest to the Northwest with prospect that tomorrow, cooling breezes would modify if not dissipate the midsummer heat.

Meanwhile the humidity caused the heat to seem even more oppressive than yesterday, when the mercury reached the 92-degree mark, one degree below the season's record, registered Tuesday. Cloudiness probably will keep the temperature below 90 today, Brotzman asserted.

Thousands slept in the parks last night to escape the heat, while river pools and bathing

GAS GIRL, CLERK, LOOT BANK

SWARTHMORE, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—Four men who used tear gas to prevent employes from interfering with them, held up the Morton National Bank at Morton, near here, today and escaped with between $3,000 and $5,000 after firing a shot at a bus driver who tried to stop them.

The men fled in an automobile bearing New Jersey license plates in the direction of Chester, Pa.

The bank teller, Harry A. Tyrons, was overcome by the fumes and Miss Betty R. Artisde, of Swarthmore, a customer, fainted.

The robbers in driving up to the bank ordered Philip Carvan to run his parked automobile into an alley so that they could leave their car in front of the institution. They walked into the bank with pistols drawn.

One of the men shot part of the tear gas at Tyrons. As the teller staggered, another of the men climbed a partition separating the cages from the front part of the bank.

The man who had climbed the partition scooped up all the money in the drawers of the teller's cage.

6 MINISTERS IN SECRET MEETING

Von Papen Removes More Officials; Reds Wounded

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, July 21.—Evading military police set to watch them, six Prussian ministers, deposed by the Reich chancellor, Franz von Papen, when he established a dictatorship yesterday, met secretly at the home of Dr. Hirtsiefer, minister of public welfare, today and challenged von Papen's action.

They addressed an open letter to von Papen, declaring his action was unconstitutional and against the wishes of the majority of the citizens, not only of Prussia, but of the German republic.

A new decree, issued early this afternoon, threatens the immediate arrest without warrant of all persons "suspected" of carrying arms or concealing ammunition.

GOVERNORS OUSTED

Von Papen also issued an edict removing from office the Socialist governors of the Prussian provinces of Silesia, Schleswig-Holstein and Hessen Nassau.

Still moving with military precision, the government issued a terse communique at 3:30 this afternoon, stating that the police presidents in nine of the larger cities of Prussia "will be replaced."

Meanwhile at Leipzig, breaking all records for speed, the state court today decided to hear on Saturday the application of the deposed Prussian cabinet for a temporary injunction to restrain the Reich from interfering with the Prussian government pending final decision on the issues involved in the decree naming a dictator for the Prussian state.

REDS WOUNDED

Shortly before noon there was some disorder in Alexander-Platz. Near police headquarters police found a crowd of Communists attacking a single Nazi and immediately pitched into the Reds.

Dr. Franz Bracht, serving as von Papen's penipotentiary, drew up formal charges against former high officials of the Berlin police department, including President Albert Grzesinski, Vice President Bernard Weiss and Maj. Heimannsberg.

Their trial was demanded for resisting the enforcement of yesterday's emergency decree, conviction for which would render them liable to imprisonment and a fine of $4,000.

Truck Blaze Jams Tube Traffic

Traffic at the north end of the Liberty tubes was tied up when the automobile truck driven by William Jeffries, Negro, 29, of 2242 Center avenue, ignited today. Sergt. Lawrence Keenan and a squad extinguished the fire before firemen arrived. Painters were repainting the traffic lines, necessitating slow traffic and the arrival of fire apparatus increased congestion.

Racketeer, Guard Slain at Cabaret

SHAWANO, Wis., July 21.—(INS.)—A notorious Chicago labor racketeer and his bodyguard were ruthlessly slain by a machine gun squad at the rear of a roadhouse near here early today.

The victims were Patrick (Paddy) Berrell, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 25, and Willie Marks, alias William Melnechuck, a former "Bugs" Moran gangster, long sought as a bandit and a killer.

MILITIA SENT TO RESCUE 20 TRAPPED IN MINE BY PICKETS

HELD 20 HOURS WITHOUT FOOD

1,000 Men Surround Shaft, But Offer No Violence

DUGGER, Ind., July 21.—(AP.)—Three companies of Indiana National Guardsmen were ordered today to the vicinity of the Hoosier coal mine, where 20 nonunion workmen have refused to leave until assured protection from more than a thousand union sympathizers maintaining a picket around the shaft.

GOVERNOR TO SCENE

Gov. Harry G. Leslie and Sheriff Wesley Williams, of Sullivan County, indicated their major interest was to remove the miners, who have been in the shaft more than 20 hours without food. They said the workmen were armed and expressed fear they might become desperate if they remained in the pit much longer.

Sheriff Williams was notified of the order this morning by Gov. Leslie, who said he would accompany the troops when they assemble at Shakamak State Park, about 10 miles from the mine.

The Hoosier mine is one of several in the Southern Indiana field co-operative basis. The Indiana co-operative basis. The Iniana Coal Operators' Association and District 11, United Mine Workers of America failed to renew their contract when it expired on March 31.

INJUNCTION ISSUED

For several months the shaft has been under protection of a federal restraining order preventing picketers from interfering with the workers. A few days ago about 180 miners picketing a mine operating under a similar injunction were arrested and released.

Sheriff Williams said he planned no arrests as long as the picketers remained orderly. The men on the picket line spent last night sitting under trees smoking their pipes and spinning yarns, the sheriff said, while their wives served them sandwiches and coffee solicited in nearby coal towns.

RAIN TO BRING HEAT RELIEF

places were thronged. Ralph Ridgeley, 20, of 1510 Carlisle street, Natrona Heights, and Michael Glaris, 18, of Brackenridge, were rescued from drowning last night while swimming in the Allegheny River near Natrona.

Yesterday three deaths were blamed on the heat. John Roadway, 77, of Horning, died sitting in a chair in his home; Mrs. Ann Burkhart, 77, died in her home at Coal Hollow, Sandy Creek. Joseph A. Renner, 17, of Swissvale, was drowned in the Monongahela River.

By the Associated Press

Torch-like temperatures subsided today throughout the upper Mississippi basin as the nation credited 38 more deaths to extreme summer heat. Showers swept mercifully across the northern brow of the land, from the Rockies to the Great Lakes and on into the North Atlantic states, but southern areas still gasped in anticipation of relief promised by Friday.

AMBRIDGE, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—Release of orders for 20,000 tons of steel to be fabricated in the Ambridge plant of the American Bridge Company has returned 150 draftsmen to the plant.

ITALY ASSAILS ARMS PARLEY

GENEVA, July 21.—(INS.)—Italy hurled a bombshell into the disarmament conference today, flatly rejecting the adjournment resolution on the ground that it simply laid down the principles of armament reduction without making any actual provisions for it.

The Italian stand was made known in a speech delivered with great enthusiasm in Italian by Italo Balbo, Italian air minister. The speech was reported to have been written by Premier Benito Mussolini himself as his first act in international affairs since assuming the foreign ministry portfolio yesterday.

Balbo said:

"This conference is an utter failure. It is undeserving of the hopes of the people of the world."

Credit Leniency Urged To Stimulate Business

Committee Declares Bankers Can Spur Trade Upturn

CLEVELAND, July 21.—(AP.)—An "urgent recommendation" that bankers of the Fourth Federal Reserve District adopt a "more lenient credit attitude" toward small business enterprises was made last night in a report by the district banking and industrial committee. The committee said:

"It is our conclusion that it thus lies within the power of the bankers to make a great and important contribution toward improvement in present business conditions."

The committee's "summary of the ability of the banks of the district to provide credit to business" was quoted as showing that credit for use of commerce and industry is available in the district.

Another survey, conducted among 3,000 manufacturers, disclosed "that there is a vast amount of productive business available, particularly to the small manufacturers within the district, if banking accommodation can be extended to finance such productive business."

More than half of the manufacturers solicited furnished information. The report continued:

"It is time for faith on the part of lenders of money even as it is time for courage on the part of those who need it and have thus far found themselves denied.

"If faith in the lender and courage and resourcefulness in the borrower are brought into partnership in a new approach to their mutual problems, there will be important gains in employment in this district, important increases in commodity and material sales and there will be important new resources available, through taxes of the community, to the support of the validity of debts and interest payments."

The committee recommended to all bankers a close study of the use of the trade acceptance as a means of credit advance to small manufacturers.

Members of the committee include Howard Heinz, president, the H. J. Heinz Company; H. C. McEldowney, president, the Union Trust Company, Pittsburgh, and F. T. Weir, chairman, National Steel Corporation.

Officials say the victim here is evidently 50 years old. Mrs. Miller said she had married Miller, in Pittsburgh, and he had left her three years ago.

JOBS INCREASE IN INDUSTRY OF STATE

Building, Road Work Employ Idle; Some Lines Fall Off

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(AP.)—Employment increased in a number of trades in many sections of Pennsylvania during June, according to the monthly report of Lewis G. Hines, Federal employment director.

The upturn, his report revealed, was general in the building trades, due to relief construction, while highway building gave work to maany unemployed men.

Other trades showing a better general tone and thus more employment included quarries, cigar and tobacco factories, paper and printing establishments, and the oil industry generally.

Unemployment increased among workers usually engaged in textile mills, the report indicated, metal products plants, bituminous and anthracite fields, public utility establishments and among professional and technical groups.

Increased Commodity Prices Help Outlook

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(Universal.)—Government experts today closely scanned reports of price and business upturns that poured into the capital from private sources.

The most pleasing reports were those of continued increases in the prices of some commodities. The commodity index has been on the upgrade for seven consecutive weeks, but government officials still decline to comment publicly.

Privately they say the upturn is very significant and many of them personally believe a definite turn in business and industry has been started.

BUYING POWER AIDED

The increase in commodity prices since May 28, has added about a billion dollars to the nation's buying power, it is estimated.

The most significant of latest reports reaching here was one from Akron, O., that the India Tire and Rubber Company adopted a salary and wage increase plan to restore wages lost when all employes took a cut on January 1.

Another optimistic report was that the Standard Silk Company, of Phillipsburg, N. J., will re-employ 965 men by the middle of next month.

From New England came reports that orders are pouring into the textile mills, shoe factories, hat factories, velvet mills and jewelry shops calling for increased production and employment.

One committeeman said only three of the 13 members voted for the measure. He said that the committee could not agree on several proposed amendments.

Proponents of the measure said the collector receives $100,000 a year and urged appointment of a salaried collector for each division of the county.

Hoover Soon to Name Manager, Burke Says

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—After a conference with President Hoover, at which he said campaign plans had been discussed, James Francis Burke, counsel of the Republican National Committee, told newspapermen the President would agree upon an eastern campaign manager within 24 hours.

U. S. WILL RUSH AID TO STATES

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(INS.)—Financial relief for states whose private and public funds have been exhausted will be forthcoming from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation within two or three weeks after signing of the relief bill by President Hoover.

A fund of $300,000,000 is set up for this purpose. Not more than $45,000,000 may be furnished to any state. The advances will be deducted from federal aid road funds so that no loss will accrue to the federal government.

Illinois probably will get the first advance. Representatives of Gov. Emmerson already have been before the board to show that state funds virtually have been exhausted, that $3,500,000 has been spent monthly and that relief work must stop unless federal money is available. The board was impressed by the Illinois plight.

Pennsylvania may get the second loan, Gov. Pinchot, long an advocate of federal unemployment relief, having asked for the maximum amount of $45,000,000.

U. S. TO 'HAND OUT' CLOTHES

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(INS.)—For the first time in history, the federal government is about to distribute clothing indirectly to its destitute citizens through the agencies of the American Red Cross.

This was revealed today by Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, who said his organization awaits the signing of an appropriation bill by President Hoover to commence distribution of clothing to the country's needy.

Women and children's cotton dresses, stockings, sweaters, coats and men's clothing will be distributed throughout the country a few days after the President signs the bill appropriating the necessary funds for the Federal Farm Board to release 500,000 bales of cotton donated to the Red Cross by act of Congress, Judge Payne said.

ECONOMY BILLS IN SENATE FOR FINAL ACTION

$3,337,834 Restored To Measures by Committee

HARRISBURG, July 21.—(AP.)—The Senate today received for final consideration the amended governmental economy program with a total slash of $18,884,997 in appropriations as compared with the House cut of $22,222,831.

Amendments made by the Senate appropriations committee restored $3,337,834 in appropriation reductions made by the House.

Bills covering these reductions were reported for consideration on final passage in the Senate next Monday night. Additional House bills restoring cuts in whole or part resulting from the 1931 Talbot $10,000,000 poor relief act also were reported and were passed on first reading. They will be considered on second reading Monday night.

ATTENDANCE SPARSE

Only a handful of Senators were in the Senate chamber when the bills were reported and the House was not in session, having concluded its sessions for the week yesterday.

The economy and restoration bills taken together show the following results:

1. A slash of 18,884,997 in governmental expenses are provided by the 1931 regular session.

2. Restoration in full of 994,410 to mother's assistance funds, $604,000 for care of the indigent and insane; $1,727,802 to state-aided hospitals and $153,343 to state-aided homes, a total of $3,479,555. These amounts were cut by the enactment of the 1931 $10,000,000 Talbot poor relief act.

3. Partial restorations of approximately $1,250,000 to other appropriations curtailed by the Talbot act.

4. Total restorations of approximately $4,750,000 as compared with a restoration total of $6,407,232 recommended by the Governor.

5. A $2,000,000 additional appropriation to state-aided hospitals.

6. Deducting the above items from the $18,884,997 cut leaves approximately $14,000,000 for relief purposes.

However, the Governor and Legislature differed on the amount of money available for relief.

PINCHOT DEMANDS

The Governor insists that an additional $5,000,000 be taken to balance the budget in the face of an unexpected impending deficit of $5,000,000 next May 31. The Legislature has taken the position that this deficit should be cared for by a deficiency appropriation in the 1933-35 biennium.

The Governor figured on a total restoration of $10,000,000 in appropriations reductions resulting from the Talbot act, despite his recommended $6,407,232 restoration, in his statement this week in which he asserted that the House Appropriations Committee had made a blunder of $15,000,000 in its calculations.

Having presented this economy program to the Senate it was understood that supporters of the economy program believed it would be approved in its present form, or with only minor changes, by the Legislature and be sent to the Governor. They indicated they expect the Governor to veto the economy bills and showed little if any expectation that sufficient votes could be mustered to pass the measures over the expected veto.

Lieutenant Quizzed In Probe Promoted

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Lieut. John W. Kenna, whose large bank accounts and those of his mother were the object of scrutiny in the inquiry into magistrates' courts, was promoted to a captaincy today by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney.

Both the Commissioner and Kenna called the promotion a vindication of Kenna for the suspicion cast upon him as a result of his examination in the inquiry. The Commissioner said that after an examination of Kenna's record he felt justified in promoting him.

JOHN C. SWAN (FACING CAMERA) . . . DETECTIVE THOMAS MULVIHILL IN ROLE OF VICTIM

Knoxville automobile salesman reenacting, with assistance of homicide sleuth, the slaying of an unidentified youth in an alley at the rear of his home, 320 Zara street, early today. Swan told police he was awakened by his wife who said she saw a prowler near their automobile. Arming himself with a revolver, Swan said he went to the alley and fired when the youth attempted to attack him with a pair of pliers. The wounded boy ran and his body was found at the rear of the Hilltop Y. M. C. A. Building two hours later. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Capone Plays Ball; Warns Youths Against Crime

ATLANTA, July 21.—(AP.)—Al Capone, who changed from Public Enemy No. 1 of Chicago to federal prisoner No. 40,886 here, has become another first.

He is first baseman on a baseball team in the government institution, but most of his time is occupied in the prison's shoe shop over the machines and lasts.

H. W. Bradshaw, who said he was a physician of Memphis, Tenn., came from the prison after serving 33 months, and said he had known Capone soon after the gangster arrived to serve 11 years for income tax evasion.

Dr. Bradshaw said his service in the penitentiary clinic threw him in close contact with the Chicago gang boss and that a strange, strong friendship was quickly made.

Capone shows no resentment to orders from guards, the former convict said.

Young prisoners often go to Capone for advice. Some of them, Bradshaw explained, hope to get a word of encouragement from him in their plans to carry on illegally after they "take the rap." Instead, Capone often has been heard to tell them:

"Rackets get you nowhere—except here."

Brother of Slain Man Watches Killer Die

TRENTON, N. J., July 21.—(INS.)—Quietly, but with eyes that flashed a steely light, a grim faced man sat with the official witnesses at the execution of Guiseppe De Dolce in the state prison early today.

He watched the death house guards adjust the electrodes and straps to the doomed man, father of seven children, who prayed aloud:

"God bless my wife and children. Goodbye, my wife and children."

There was no sympathy on the face of the tight-lipped witness.

The hood was put on the convicted man, a generator whirled and the electric current coursed through De Dolce's body.

Four minutes later he was pronounced dead. He had expiated the murder of Patrolman John F. McCann, of Elizabeth, N. J.

The grim faced witness was the slain man's brother, Patrolman James McCann, who obtained special permission to witness the execution.

De Dolce killed the policeman when the latter tried to enforce a curfew edict at De Dolce's drinking resort.

BIGAMY AND FORGERY CHARGED TO SHADYSIDE CHEMIST

M'COY CHEERED AS HE LEAVES SAN QUENTIN

'Don't Come Back,' Pal Yells as Ex-Boxer Begins New Life

International News Service.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., July 21. — "Good-bye, 'Kid' McCoy! Lots of luck!"

Yells from 5,000 convicts echoed in the San Quentin Prison cell blocks today as "Kid" McCoy, the former internationally-famous prize-fighter, discarded the garb of convict No. 40716. The prison's most popular inmate was being released. On convict shouted:

"—— And don't come back!"

That was a strange blast in McCoy's ears. Crowds, many times larger than today's 5,000, applauded him many, many years ago and had always demanded he "come back again." He was one of the ring's most colorful figures.

Parole papers in hand, McCoy bade "farewell forever" to prison officials, guards and convict "trusties." Later today he was to board a train for Michigan, where he will work in the service department of an automobile plant.

Following conviction in Los Angeles, McCoy entered prison April 11, 1925, to serve a 20-year sentence for killing Mrs. Theresa Mors, his sweetheart.

He must serve six years on parole.

McCoy, fitted once again in civilian clothes, remarked he was ashamed of himself and now wants to do something for humanity.

HUGHES ASSAILS ANN'S CHARGE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 21.—(AP.)—Ann Dvorak, screen actress, was not "sold down the river" and "she is misinformed if she thinks so," Howard Hughes, youthful Hollywood film producer, said today.

Hughes, to whom the actress is under contract, replied to Miss Dvorak and her husband, Leslie Fenton, who in New York made pointed remarks about producers and their money-making tactics.

Regarding a report that Miss Dvorak was loaned to Warner Brothers studio for $1,000 a week, Hughes said the price actually netted his company less than $150 a week. Miss Dvorak, he said, will receive from her contract $250 a week for a short time and her salary will increase materially each year.

Millionaires Object To Lights and Cost

EVANSTON, Ill., July 21.—(AP.)—Bright lights, a group of Evanston millionaires say, will destroy the quiet of their exclusive neighborhood.

They are opposing extension of the new municipal lighting system to their street, and object to being included in a special $1,000,000 assessment for the improvement.

Secret Getaway

GRETA GARBO

ELUSIVE GARBO GONE AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 21.—(AP.)—The elusive Greta Garbo supposedly was en route to Sweden today for a vacaion from motion pictures. When, where and how she made her departure were secret, if she made it. Her business manager, Harry Eddington, said:

"I saw Miss Garbo last at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when I completed all my business with her, making it possible for her to leave. I was supposed to have seen her at 9 o'clock last night but other business appointments prevented me, and an attempt to reach her by phone during the evening proved of no avail."

Miss Garbo's contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios recently expired, but it has been rumored she will sign a new one with the studios on her return from Europe.

LAST TRIBUTE TO JUSSERAND

PARIS, July 21.—(AP.)—American residents of France joined the French nation today in paying a last tribute to Jules Jusserand, former Ambassador to Washington, who died Monday. M. Jusserand spent 22 years in Washington as Ambassador. Representatives of both countries marched in the funeral cortege, which was conducted with military honors. They attended a requiem mass at the Church of Saint Pierre de Chaillot.

Among the mourners were Gen. John J. Pershing, former President Millerand, of France; the Canadian minister and representatives of the French Academy and the French Institute.

Mme. Jusserand, an American, said she was deeply moved by the messages of sympathy she had received from the United States and France.

LAST MAN CLUB SURVIVOR TO 'CARRY ON'

Aged Veteran to Hold Final Rollcall At Ritual

STILLWATER, Okla., July 21.—(AP.)—Keeping faith with its tradition, the Last Man's Club, reduced by deaths to one survivor, rallied today for probably the last time.

Tonight in the presence of 33 chairs draped in black set about a table whose centerpiece will be a bottle of rare old Burgundy wine, Capt. Charles Lockwood, of Chamberlain, S. D., the survivor, will call the roll of the 34 members of the club.

Though Lockwood expects to live many more years, he admits the annual visit without the cheering presence of his Civil War comrades of Company B, 1st Minnesota Infantry, is becoming more of a task each July 21. Last winter he was ill for several months. He intends to be more careful of his health.

MAY CLOSE RECORDS

So, after he carries out the club ritual tonight, he may close up the records forever.

Following the roll call, Lockwood will drink a toast to his departed companions of the first battle of Bull Run, fought July 21, 1861—in water. The wine, set aside at the first reunion of the veterans in 1885 fulfilled its destiny in 1930, when for the first time Lockwood met alone. That was soon after the funeral of his old friend, Peter Hall, of Atwater, Minn., "the next to the last man." The beverage was designated in 1885 as the toast drink for the last survivor.

WINE PRESERVED

The wine is being preserved partly because Lockwood has no fondness for it and partly because he wants the Historical Society to which he gave the bottle to preserve the liquor.

But he brought a little vial with him and he expects to fill it from the bottle as he did in 1930. Last spring on a visit to Washington he showed it to President Hoover and a girl reporter. Later he discovered the vial was empty. He laughed:

"I know that the President didn't drink any of it, but I can't tell about that girl."

After the meeting tonight a veterans' organization banquet will have Lockwood as guest.

GRANDI TO GET LONDON POST

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—Dino Grandi, who in his capacity as foreign minister came to be a sort of traveling representative of the Italian government, probably will be his country's next ambassador to Great Britain, it appeared today.

It was disclosed that inquiries had been made on behalf of the Italian government as to whether he would be acceptable, and that the reply was in the affirmative.

Signor Grandi was removed from the foreign ministry yesterday in a cabinet shakeup ordered by Premier Mussolini. This morning the premier took over the office and his lieutenant went on a vacation. When he returns he probably will be appointed to London.

BOLIVIA WOMEN URGE WAR

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 21.—(AP.)—Two thousand Bolivian women had pledged their lives today to the government if war is declared on Paraguay, and a troop train loaded with reinforcements from the army was on its way "to the Bolivian interior."

The troop train was sent out following reports of a battle in the Gran Chaco region.

The army of women paraded to the presidential palace, urging the fatherland to defend itself.

NEW YORK, July 21.—(INS.)—Inez Haynes Irwin, novelist, today was named by the National Council of Women to write a book detailing the achievements of women in the past 100 years.

BONUS 'REBELS' TO DESERT CAPITAL

California's Marchers Break With Waters, Bonus Leader

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Roy W. Robertson, leader of the so-called "rebel group" from California in the bonus army, announced today he and his men would quit Washington within the next 48 hours.

Robertson has been at odds with Walter W. Waters, commander of the main body of the B. E. F., ever since his arrival here and has refused to fall behind Waters' banner.

Trial of John Pace, of Detroit, leader of the radical element of the bonus army, and his two Michigan companions, was postponed until tomorrow. They were charged with acting disorderly and parading without a license when they attempted to march in front of the White House yesterday.

The Treasury Department today issued orders for the evacuation of all government buildings along Pennsylvania avenue now occupied by members of the bonus army.

The order also instructed the police to clear out adjoining vacant lots where the men have built crude shelters of various sorts.

Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of Washington police, made plans for the evacuation later today.

At the veterans' administration office members of the bonus army continued to seek transportation home. Up to noon railroad tickets or oil and gas had been furnished to more than 4,000.

JOHN PACE, BONUS ARMY LEADER, SEIZED BY THE POLICE

An attempt to picket the White House failed yesterday when three leaders of a small group of veterans marching in that direction were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. This is a Wide World News Photograph Service picture.

'WHAT-A-MAN' GOES TO WORK

LAS VEGAS, Nev., July 20.—(AP.)—Guy Edward Hudson, estranged husband of Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy-Hudson, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, has found a job.

He goes to work tomorrow as a cigar counter attendant and pool table caretaker in a recreation parlor in Boulder City.

Hudson came here several days ago, leaving the seaside cottage of his wife near Los Angeles a short time before she signed a divorce complaint. He said he would wait now to see if she would keep her agreement to live with him. He related:

"She has always said if I got a job and went to work she would come to me, no matter where it was. Now is her chance to make good."

LIONESS PANICS CONEY CROWD

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Coney Island packed a new thrill today, unheralded and absolutely free—a grouchy lioness on the loose.

Sheba, who has developed a bad disposition since her two cubs were born a few months ago, broke away during a rehearsal of a wild animal circus.

Women and children screamed as the lioness darted in and out of sheds and runways. A police squad rushed up with pistols drawn, but circus attendants cornered her and poked her back into a cage before anyone was hurt.

3D DEGREE CASE BEFORE JURY

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 21.—(AP.)—An extraordinary grand jury began consideration today of the death of Hyman Stark, for which 13 county police have been arrested, some on second degree murder charges, some for assault, and all for conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The first witness was the court stenographer who transcribed the testimony at the John Doe hearing into the death of Stark, who was beaten to death after being arrested for assaulting the mother of a detective during the robbery of her home.

It was understood District Attorney Elvin Edwards intended to read this testimony to the grand jury instead of calling before it the witnesses who testified at the hearing, which ended yesterday with the 13 policemen being held for grand jury action.

BATHERS' GARB SPLITS PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(AP.)—What Miss Philadelphia shall wear at public beaches has caused a division of opinion between city officials and the Fairmount Park Commission.

White bathing suits, lacy bathing suits and brassiere outfits were officially tabooed by Public Welfare Director Woodruff. He was supported by William D. Champlin, chief of the Bureau of Recreation, in charge of municipal pools.

But the young ladies who have such outfits need not put them away in moth balls.

Maj. Thomas S. Martin, secretary of the Fairmount Park Commission, rose to the defense of the modern maidens. He said:

"Let the girls bathe in the pools over which the Park Commission has jurisdiction. Personally, I see nothing wrong with such costumes."

SECOND WIFE'S KIN BRINGS ARREST

Brother-in-Law Says Accused Signed His Name to Check

The story of a Pittsburgh chemist, alleged to have two wives, and to have traveled about the nation in airplanes to interest capital in a cancer remedy, was unfolded today following the arrest of William L. Warren, alias Dr. W. B. Lawrence, of 5115 Ellsworth avenue.

Warren was arrested last midnight in Greensburg by Constable George P. Andrews and Chief of Police John Harris, of Wilkinsburg, on charges of bigamy and forgery.

WED CASTLE KIN

Warren married Katherine Castle, a cousin of William R. Castle, Jr., under secretary of state, December 16, 1911, according to Constable Andrews. His marriage to Stella Venn, who owns the aristocratic home in Ellsworth avenue, took place July 18, 1931, Andrews said.

His arrest followed a complaint by his brother-in-law, George Venn, of the Ellsworth avenue address, that Warren forged Venn's name to a $500 check.

The first Mrs. Warren is living somewhere in the East, Andrews said, and Warren already had left wife No. 2 when arrested. As a result of a message he sent to her a few days ago from Greensburg, police apprehended him.

Warren, of dignified appearance, is 62 years old, and, according to his own story, has been working for the past year on a "pharmaceutical formula."

FORTUNE GONE

He is alleged by Constable Andrews to have gone through $40,000 of his second wife's money and to have used a considerable amount provided by her brother in the promotion of his "formula."

Mrs. Stella Warren told the investigators, they said:

"He had such influence over me that I would not believe what friends said about him."

One of Warren's plans, Andrews said, was to found a research laboratory, and in behalf of this scheme, he is alleged at one time to have represented himself as being associated with the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research. At no time was he connected with that organization, Andrews said his investigation showed.

WIFE IS INSANE ---WANAMAKER

RENO, Nev., July 21.—(INS.)—John Wanamaker, Jr., today had caused the appointment of Lloyd V. Smith, Reno attorney, as guardian ad litem to represent Mrs. Pauline Disston Wanamaker in a divorce suit filed by Wanamaker.

An affidavit which supported the motion for the appointment alleged that Mrs. Wanamaker was insane.

Mrs. Wanamaker and her mother, Mrs. Rachael McVicker, were served July 7 with a divorce summons at Longport, N. J., Wanamaker recited, but instead of filing an answer here, had instituted action in Pennsylvania seeking to restrain prosecution of Wanamaker's suit in Nevada.

the dear public is supposed not to own or operate anything UNLESS OPERATION FAILS TO PAY, IN WHICH CASE THE PUBLIC SHOULD TAKE IT OVER AND PAY THE DEFICIT.

SENATOR BORAH also will have something to say about the new waterway, which must be approved by the Senate. Let us hope a way will be found to avoid robbing the people TOO thoroughly, and to avoid breaking the hearts of too many "power people."

The waterway is needed, and no matter what happens now, the people will always have power to do what seems wise and just. In the power of "eminent domain," and the power to tax, there are remedies for many evils, if the people choose to use them.

Wife Slays Husband, And 'Other Woman'

Shots rangs out in the exclusive East End residential section adjoining Point Breeze as dawn broke today, and as the echo reverberated over the district, Attorney Harry J. Nesbit found his chauffeur and a woman dying in his private garage at 6109 Fifth avenue.

They were slain by the chauffeur's wife, Mrs. Fanny Bristow, 19, a maid in the Nesbit home, according to police.

The chauffeur, Rollan Bristow, 24, Negro, died almost immediately. The second victim, unidentified Negro woman, died later in the Pittsburgh Hospital. She was tentatively identified as Mattie Warfield, of Raleigh street.

Mrs. Bristow was arrested.

The chauffer had been entertaining friends in the Nesbit automobile during the night, the wife told police. She said she saw her husband and the woman enter the garage about 5:30 o'clock.

Attorney Nesbit, awakened by the shots and Mrs. Bristow's screams, rushed to the garage.

HEARST'S DEBT TALK WORRIES BRITAIN

Universal Service.

LONDON, July 21.—The London News-Chronicle, in a dispatch from New York, declares there is a tendency in Washington to maintain silence on the war debt question until the presidential elections have been completed.

The News-Chronicle dispatch tells how Sir Walter T. Layton's radio broadcast Sunday was received by newspapers in the United States, declaring:

"Extracts of Sir Walter's address were given on the front page of the New York American, chief Hearst newspaper, under the headline: 'Europe to Ask for War Debt Cut of 2,000,000,000 Pounds.'

"In an introductory paragraph it was stated Sir Walter's words confirmed the belief that it was intended by the 'gentlemen's agreement' to thrust another 2,000,000,000-pound burden on American taxpayers.

"Officials at Washington are so anxious to allay the storm that has arisen over war debts that none would make any comment on the talk of Sir Walter today for publication.

"In responsible quarters there is a tendency to soft-pedal the debts discussion until the elections are over. It is felt that to raise the issue now would be to play into the hands of Mr. Hearst and other irreconcilables.

"Mr. Hearst is plainly seeking to inject war debts and the 'gentlemen's agreement' into the election campaign, and there are many politicians who believe voters are to be won by a cry of 'Not a cent off war debts while Americans are starving!'

"Mr. Hearst's ferocious radio talk, in which he denounced European governments as 'a conspiracy of crooks,' was broadcast over a chain of wireless stations and reached every home on the North American continent.

"Many politicians appear to be impressed by the response of the public to this inflammatory outburst."

POINT TO SMITH FOR SENATE

NEW YORK, July 21.—(INS.)—Possibility that United States Senator Wagner would become the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, and Alfred E. Smith, former Governor, the candidate for Senator to succeed Wagner, was discussed today in Democratic political circles.

Official confirmation was lacking, but although Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is eager to have Lieut. Gov. Lehman become Governor, it was believed he might indorse the proposed state slate to make his peace with Smith.

In that event, Lehman would be promised a cabinet position should Roosevelt be elected President, observers said.

Major Firms Prefer Ads in Newspaper

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Major industries continue to show a preference for newspaper advertising over that of other mediums, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association reported today.

The association's Bureau of Advertising announced the results of a survey showed 435 national advertisers spent $143,365,000 in newspaper advertising last year. Magazine space was used by 190 of these firms to the extent of $78,317,815 and 121 used radio broadcasts entailing an expenditure of $21,223,862.

PARIS PAPER DEMANDS END OF DEBT

Editorial Denounces Hoover as Killer Of Young Plan

PARIS, July 21.—Under the heading, "Where Are the Gangsters? France Confronted by Dramatic Truth," La Liberte yesterday published the following editorial:

It would be criminal to allow public opinion to remain longer ignorant of the dramatic truth of the debt question.

Parliamentary policy, especially the French policy, humors itself in certain inexactitudes which facilitate the daily life of government and which enable the people's representatives to avoid their responsibility, but which ends always by costing French taxpayers very dearly.

At Lausanne was buried reparations—reparations which President Hoover assassinated by his message of June 22 last year.

This is an established fact, a certain truth.

LAUSANNE ACCORD

Whatever happens, and even if Parliament refuses to ratify the Lausanne accords, Germany will never pay again what is called 'infamous tribute."

Having passed a sponge over reparations, they spoke much of debts, notably heavy installments which France is engaged to pay England and America—about five billion annually. These annuities France should have been able to cover from Germany, thanks to the Young plan.

But these conversations failed to reach a conclusion. England declared she wouldn't renounce the debt from France except if the United States renounced the debt from Great Britain. Now the United States has announced since then, and has repeated, that it refuses and will always refuse to annul European debts.

This also is an established fact, the dramatic truth for France, which can be suppressed but which cannot be denied.

COOLIDGE QUOTED

Do we desire to know what America thinks on the debt question? Let us meditate on what was written recently by President Coolidge, President Hoover's predecessor in the White House and himself a signer of the agreement with France negotiated by Messrs. Mellon and Henry Berenger.

In the last number of the great American magazine, the Cosmopolitan, which is part of the Hearst publications, President Coolidge devoted a long article to the question of Europeon debts. He considers them, just as we until yesterday considered reparations, as just debts subscribed to in a regular manner, which should be paid. He concluded:

"Each nation should do what it has agreed to do."

Exactly, Mr. Coolidge—except Germany, undoubtedly because it is President Hoover who has destroyed the Young plan!

As for Mr. William Randolph Hearst, he has pronounced several days ago and disseminated by radio, with governmental authorization, a speech wherein, in a graphic style which is his own, he has stated in his own fashion a thesis sustained by his contributor, President Coolidge.

HEARST STAND

Mr. Hearst said:

"For years Europe fought like savage dogs, laying waste until strength was gone and resources exhausted.

"Then the Allies came to us.

"We won the war. We won it for ourselves and for the Allies.

"We spent thousands of millions of dollars on our prosecution of the war, and loaned the Allies thousands of millions of dollars for their prosecution of the war, and also thousands of millions of dollars to rehabilitate themselves.

"We took unquestioning their promises to pay. They gave their word, their bond, their honor—such as they had.

"We came home and went to work to pay our taxes.

"The European nations did not like paying taxes. They decided to impose part of the overwhelming indemnity on Germany and part upon the United States, the victorious nation.

"The Allies repudiated half their debts, and put that burden upon the United States and the other part on Germany.

"Now Germany cannot pay. The Allies have taken all the wealth she has.

'TAKE U. S. WEALTH'

"So the Allies have another grand idea to escape paying for their war. They are going to take the wealth we have.

"They are going to repudiate the remaining half of the debt they owe us.

"Paying the indemnity the Allies want to impose on us will keep us in financial bondage for a generation.

"But the Europeans think good old Uncle Santa Claus will not mind that.

"Under the proposed debt cancellation, the United States would pay over eleven billions of dollars to the Allies. Thus Germany, the loser of the war, would actually pay less than the victorious nation.

"Finally, Europe is not only going to try to impose this indemnity upon us, but is going to try to make us like it.

"Let us not be sentimentally idiotic.

"Who trusts a people who repudiate their debts?

"Can perfidy promote peace?

"BURDEN ON AMERICA"

"The failure of Europe to pay its debts will merely transfer the debt from the backs of European people to the backs of our own people.

"These European nations entered a 'gentleman's agreement' to force their dishonest cancellation policy on the United States.

"How can there be a gentleman's agreement between welchers?

"How can there be gentlemen whose honor is worthless?

"Let us call this secret gang compact something more descriptive of its true character.

"Let us call it plainly a crooked conspiracy of European confidence men and their American confederates to rob the American people."

Thus is expressed, certainly without courtesy, but at least without hypocrisy, the opinion of an immense majority of the American people on the debt question.

Do you still doubt?

ADDITIONAL PROOF

Then there is supplementary proof, convincing and unanswerable.

In a few months the United States is going to designate a new president of the republic for four years.

The program of the Republican party, which represents Mr. Hoover doesn't even condescend to mention the debt question.

The program of the Democrats, who represent the voters for Franklin Roosevelt—who has been falsely described to us as partisan and outspoken on debts and against whom his opponents wish to exploit this legend—contains one phrase on the debt question. What does it say? This:

"We oppose cancellation of the debts owing to the United States by foreign nations."

Mr. John Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, said at a public meeting:

"The United States should not listen to any nonsense relative to the capacity of debtor nations to pay."

Such is the truth. Such is the situation wherein France finds itself facing creditors, but receiving nothing more from Germany.

Are we mistaken in saying the situation is dramatic for us?

French taxpayers already are obligated to pay two billions additional taxes to plug the hole in the budget made by the suppression of the Young plan, due to the initative and coup de force of President Hoover. They must support, moreover, the whole of the debt contracted for the restoration of the devastated regions.

SHALL FRANCE PAY?

Shall French taxpayers be obliged also to pay five good billions supplementary taxes so as to pay annuities to the governments in London and Washington, which, to save their credits, frozen in Germany, have deprived us of our most sacred rights?

If public opinion fails to act immediately, if it fails to force on governmental pusillanimity, on parliamentary cowardice, a clear and energetic position, France, bled and devastated by war, will end by being the only one to pay for all the costs and all the devastations of the war.

If you don't accept this crime against France, sign and get others to sign our referendum.

(The last sentence refers to a blank petition printed daily by Liberte for signatures' protest against further payments to England and the United States.)

Hearst Radio Speech 'Dramatic Truth,' La Liberte Says

SHIPSTEAD HITS DEBT CUT PLOT

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(INS.)—Efforts of administration leaders to soft-pedal the debt cancellation issue received another setback today as a flood of congratulatory messages greeted the speech broadcast by Senator Shipstead (Farm.-Lab.), of Minnesota.

Foreign governments intent on debt cancellation are forming a "ring of iron" about the United States, Shipstead warned.

International bankers and American holders of German reparations bonds are working hand-in-glove with European debtor nations, he declared, adding that the Hoover moratorium was a betrayal of American taxpayers. The Senator added:

"It is apparent that debtor governments and our own private investors in foreign securities are combining their forces against the American taxpayers, for the purpose of placing their debts and doubtful investments on the taxpayers' backs."

EMPIRE TRADE PROGRAM MAY HIT U. S.

OTTAWA, July 21.—(AP.)—A definite offer proposing wider preferences for British goods in exchange for greater British preferences to Canadian imports was made today by Premier R. B. Bennett, of Canada, immediately after he was chosen chairman of the imperial economic conference.

Any such program of preferences would have considerable effect on the trade of the United States.

The conference opened this morning with a message from King George V, read by the governor general. The King reminded the delegates they were writing a new page of history and their efforts might go far toward solving the economic troubles which weigh not only upon the British Empire, but upon all the rest of the world.

Stanley Baldwin, president of the council in the British cabinet and head of the delegation from the United Kingdom, outlined the general purposes of the gathering.

Great Britain has given the dominions the privilege of free entry into ports of the United Kingdom, and the dominions have given preferences to Great Britain, said Mr. Baldwin, but the opportunities of mutual preference have by no means been exhausted. He added:

"No one suggests that complete free trade within the empire is possible, but there can be no doubt that constant communication and more complete information about imperial market requirements would, if properly focused, give the governments opportunities of making commercial arrangements with other groups of nations such as could hardly be reached if each government acted alone."

CASH TALKS

CASH talks! More people are buying for CASH than ever before. Large numbers have closed their charge accounts because they did not want to be tempted to commit themselves to obligations they might have difficulty in meeting later on. And ABOVE ALL they believe that BUYING FOR CASH THEY SHOULD BUY FOR LESS. So we have decided to go along with the public and to introduce immediately the Policy of

Selling For CASH

This will result in a GREAT SAVING by eliminating a hundred and one expenses incident in handling credit business — collections, bookkeeping, postage, etc., etc., and THIS SAVING will be TURNED OVER TO YOU, THE CUSTOMER—but in order to BRING DOWN the costs of doing business to the LOWEST POSSIBLE POINT so that we can afford to sell merchandise at LOWEST PRICES in the city we are introducing drastic economies everywhere throughout the store. In pursuance of this plan we are rearranging our departments and eliminating unnecessary selling space, which is the reason we are launching this great REORGANIZATION SALE.

A STORE full of seasonable merchandise . . . Women's, Misses' and Girls' COATS, DRESSES, FURS, MILLINERY, SHOES, HOSIERY, LINGERIE, BAGS, etc. . . . to be turned over to the public at the MEREST FRACTION of its real value. All question of loss or cost completely disregarded. In some instances you can buy new, up-to-the-minute apparel AT LESS THAN THE COST OF MAKING. Just at a time when everybody is trying to save every penny possible we launch this extraordinary epoch-making sale, offering merchandise TO THE PUBLIC FOR MUCH LESS THAN THE MANUFACTURERS THEMSELVES CAN PRODUCE THE GOODS.

AIRPORT TAXI RATE ASSAILED

A complaint has been lodged against the Yellow Cab Company of Pittsburgh, a Parmalee subsidiary, before the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg by Andrew Garavini, proprietor of a local "auto for hire" service.

Garavini's complaint concerns special rates inaugurated by the Yellow Cab Company recently for transportation from the downtown district to the new county airport. Yellow Cab makes the trip for 50 cents a passenger, which rate Garavini declares, was set without the commission's sanction.

Garavini, since air transportation companies have made Pittsburgh a regular stop, has had the concession at $1 a person. Yellow Cab officials declined to comment on the protest.

TAX SUIT FILED BY UNION CLUB

The Union Club of Pittsburgh, now defunct, filed a suit in Federal Court against D. B. Heiner, collector of Internal Revenue, seeking to recover $19,879.40, with interest, paid as taxes on dues and initiation fees of members from April 1, 1927 to March 1, 1931. The club maintained rooms in the First National Bank Building.

The club's officers maintain its only activity was furnishing luncheons to its members and guests, declaring it was not a "social, athletic or sporting club, or association" and therefore not subject to the tax.

The club for more than a quarter of a century included in its membership many of the city's well known business men.

Bloom will offer a memorial prayer, and S. L. Fuss, president of the Zionist district, will preside.

It is believed the thief threw the loot into the stream when he failed to realize on it.

A total of 26,000 tons of limestone were brought down the Allegheny River, while the packet cargo on the Ohio River amounted to 2,830 tons.

Man Lays Longevity To Bachelorhood

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, July 21.—(INS.)—Idaho's oldest resident, Horace Hart, celebrated his one hundred fourth birthday yesterday and fourth birthday yesterday and reiterated to friends that his longevity was due to the fact that he never married and that "no woman every told me what to eat or drink and I haven't had to shorten my life by trying to gratify any female's whims."

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

I've just learned some interesting news that I want to pass on to you before I talk about anything else. There's going to be another wedding. Not here in Pittsburgh, however, but the smart set here will follow news of the wedding, nevertheless, for the bride-to-be used to live here, in Hampton street.

The bride-to-be is Laura Morgan, daughter of the Truman Spencer Morgans, of Park avenue, New York, and the bridegroom-elect is Robert Davis Jackson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry E. Jackson, of South Salem, N. Y.

July 27, Tuesday, is the date set for the wedding to take place in the Morgan home. Her two sisters, Mrs. William M. Young and Mrs. George McIntosh, of New York, will be her only attendants, and J. Mason Read, of New York, will be best man. There'll be no ushers. After a dinner Mr. Jackson and his bride will leave for their wedding trip, and later will be at home in South Salem.

* * *

Mollie Cullum, daughter of the J. Barlow Cullums, who have abandoned Sewickley, and now live in New York, entertained at a luncheon recently in the Central Park Casino for Mrs. Alan Miliken, of New York, and Mrs. William Braden, of Tulsa, Okla.

Another prominent former Pittsburgher, Mrs. George Mesta, is now in Newport, visiting her sister, Mrs. Skirvin Adams, at her Newport place.

* * *

And have you heard that the Robert A. Frankses, of Llewellyn Park, Orange, N. J., have sailed for England? Mrs. Franks, nee Quay, of Sewickley, was here last winter when the Sewickley Cot Club presented one of her plays.

* * *

Alaska has its followers, too, and no wonder. Who doesn't have a delicious shiver at the very name? The George L. Craigs, of Sewickley, will leave Sunday night with Alaska as their goal. They plan to go up the Yukon River, to motor to Fairbanks, Emerald Lake and Vancouver, and to sail on the Princess Louise to Dawson. On their return home they'll stop at Glacier Park.

* * *

The young school set is having a round of entertainments with house guests providing a cause. Today Anne Jennings is giving a luncheon in the Edgeworth Club in honor of Margaret Folger, of Lexington, Ky., who is the house guest of Pinkney Gott, daughter of the Estep T. Gotts, of Sewickley.

Pinkney gave a bridge on Tuesday in her home, and the day before Mary Ottillie Heumann gave a bridge for the same guest. A supper party on Sunday night given by Alice and Grace Crutchfield was another party for the Lexington girl.

Rafaelo Diaz, of Metropolitan Opera fame, will be the artist at the at-home the junior Thomas W. Phillipses have planned for Sunday at their estate near Butler, Phillips Hall.

Monessen Girl, Aspinwall Man Wed

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal Church, Donora, Miss Elizabeth Beverly Byron, daughter of William Byron, Sr., of Monessen, became the bride of Irvine Newton King, son of Mrs. Calvin Clay King, of Aspinwall. Officiating was the Rev. Thomas Hill Carson. Miss Mary Watkins played the wedding music.

The bride wore a princess gown of ivory satin, made with long, close-fitting sleeves, and a Juliet cap of maline and gardenias. She carried a sheaf of calla lillies. Her sister, Mrs. Frank Patterson, Jr., as matron of honor, wore white lace with a tea rose horsehair hat, and matching mitts. She carried pink tea roses. Frank Patterson, Jr., was best man, and Elton and James Byron were ushers.

The bridegroom's mother wore flowered chiffon with a braid hat, with a corsage of pink roses, and his aunt, Mrs. Samuel Kinder, of Pittsburgh, wore blue flowered chiffon with a lace hat and a wrist corsage of pink tea roses.

After the ceremony the breakfast and reception were held in the Monongahela Valley Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. King left for the East and after August 1 will be at home in Aspinwall.

The bride formerly taught in the Monessen public schools.

To Wed July 30

Miss Mary Gertrude Smith, daughter of Mrs. R. Leard Smith and the late Rev. Smith, of Lincoln avenue, Crafton, has chosen July 30 as the date for her marriage to Dr. S. Allen Dingee, of Philadelphia and Media, Pa. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church of Crafton, with the Rev. Alfred S. Dingee, father of the bridegroom-elect, officiating, assisted by the Rev. George Atwell, of Washington, Pa.

Miss Helen B. Smith will be her sister's maid of honor, and Dr. Carl Fischer, of Philadelphia, will be best man. Miss Eleanor Dingee, of Media, and Miss Helen Vance, of Ligonier, will be bridesmaids. Ushers will include Clifford Collier, of Drexel Hill, and Robert Leard Smith, Jr. The bride will be given in marriage by her brother, Stanley W. Smith. Mrs. Arthur Whitaker, of Bridgeton, N. J., a sister of the bridegroom-elect, will play the wedding music.

A reception and buffet supper will be held in the Chartiers Heights Country Club.

Hildner Wedding

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mary Hildner, daughter of Mrs. L. F. W. Hildner, of Morell street, to Thomas H. Tackbary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tackbary, of East Aurora, N. Y., which took place on July 16.

* * *

Miss Dorothy Mae and Miss Lois Klingler, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Klingler, of Bellevue, are visiting their grandparents, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul G. Klingler, of Philadelphia. They will return in early August.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John Blanchard, of Fifty-third street, spent Sunday at Camp Doyle, McHenry, Md., where their son, John Jr., is spending the summer.

* * *

The second group card party given for the benefit of Oakland Chapter No. 369, Order of Eastern Star, will be held tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock in Serbian Hall, Fifth avenue, with Mrs. Margaret Weitzel as chairman.

* * *

While the husbands are golfing Saturday afternoons at the Shannopin Country Club, their wives are enjoying card parties on the cool verandah.

Hostesses for this week will be Mrs. A. Stucki, Mrs. W. C. Hansen, Mrs. F. G. Minnick and Mrs. R. R. Sanborn.

Washington Girl to Fly With Doolittle

NEWARK, N. J., July 21.—(AP.)—Miss Anne Madison Washington, great-great-great-grandniece of George Washington, is going to go places where the first President went on his travels—but the method of locomotion will be different.

She will fly with Maj. James H. Doolittle, speed ace, when he takes off Monday on a 2,900-mile dawn-to-dusk flight to commemorate the one hundred fifty-seventh anniversary of the postal service.

AT BEACH RESORT

MISS VIRGINIA THAW . . . . DEBUTANTE KNOWN HERE

Attractive Miss Thaw, granddaughter of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Sewickley, whom she frequently visits, on her way to the Beach Club at Southampton, L. I., where she is summering with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw III, of New York. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Homewood Women Feted At Beechview Home Of New President

Yesterday the members of the Homewood Woman's Club spent an amusing afternoon at Beechview Gardens, Beechview, the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. H. N. MacKenzie, as the guests of Mrs. MacKenzie, who is the new president.

The guests played croquet, tennis and bridge, and in between times inspected the gold fish pool, and the garden. There was a booth where ice cream and cake were served, too, and a hospital tent fully equipped, perhaps in case anyone ate too much ice cream.

As the guests left they were presented with a gorgeous water-lily as a favor, and were permitted their choice of yellow, pink or white by their gracious hostess.

Sees Film Changes

Pittsburgh readers of the Club Woman, official magazine of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, will find in the current issue a picture and a story about one of its leading club women. Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, of Pittsburgh, New York and California.

Mrs. Diehl, who now makes her home in San Francisco, and who is chairman of the motion picture committee of the Federation, believes there is a definite improvement in the cinema, according to the article.

At the recent biennial convention, federal supervision of motion pictures was defeated. Mrs. Diehl told the convention that federal supervision would mean the creation of at least eight new political jobs with fat salaries.

With the present trend away from governmental bureaucracy, she thought such action would be doubly unsatisfactory. She believes that the present co-operation of the Federation and the motion picture industry already is bringing betterment.

To Visit Scouts

Presidents of the different women's clubs and of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs are invited to visit the Girl Scouts at Camp Redwing on Sunday.

The camp staff and the scouts will welcome the visitors at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, daylight savings time. Later there will be an exhibit of swimming, scout handicrafts and evening colors.

For those who wish to have a picnic, there are many attractive spots, according to the camp director, Miss Isabel C. Hummel. She suggests that motorists follow the Butler Pike road from Etna, turn left at Bakerstown, and continue four miles, turn right at Mars, and then turn left to Evans City.

Pinchot and Daniels To Address Legion

Gov. Gifford Pinchot and former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels will be among prominent guest speakers heard at the American Legion state convention opening here for three days, beginning August 18.

Pinchot, besides addressing the legionnaires at the closing session on Saturday morning, will sit in the reviewing stand during the six-hour parade in the afternoon. Ex-Secretary Daniels will be the Friday morning session speaker. Announcement of their acceptance was received at convention headquarters here from the State Department.

Airplanes Defeat Chinese Red Force

HANKOW, July 21.—(INS.)—Airplanes attacked and defeated a force of Communist troops advancing on Hankow today, forcing the Reds to retreat. Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek personally led the squadron of six planes that inflicted heavy casualties with a concentrated bombing attack.

The battle took place 20 miles from Hankow.

Court Gets Appeal To Save Dog's Life

BALTIMORE, July 21.—(AP.)—An appeal to save the life of Ming Toy has been filed in Criminal Court.

Ming Toy was sentenced to death last month but was given a stay of execution to mother her six Chow puppies. She bit two persons when her puppies were only a few hours old.

Pop Goes Weasel, As Execution Fizzles

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 21.—(AP.)—Baffled policemen here now know how a weasel can pop. Answering cries for help, they pursued a darting weasel through several downtown stores yesterday before they caught him.

Sentence of execution was pronounced at headquarters. They put the weasel in a paper box, and the box in a tub of water. Then Police Chief Miller decided to view the remains. He opened the box and out popped the weasel. Right out the door he popped—and there is no reward for his return.

ARMY TO HUNT LOST AIR LINER

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 21.—(AP.)—Blizzards continued to harrass the residents of the upper Andes today in the region where a Pan-American Grace line airplane was last sighted before she disappeared Saturday. The ship carried nine passengers.

The government announced that as soon as weather permitted the famous "Andino Regiment" would be sent to seek the lost plane.

The unit includes 100 expert mountain climbers trained especially with skiis.

The ship, piloted by Charles J. Robinson, an American, was last sighted just east of Las Cuevas, Argentina, 10 miles from the Chilean border in the region of Chacabuco Pass.

DYNAMIC SYMMETRY IS APPLIED TO DESIGNING BY PARISIENNES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, July 21.—Dynamic symmetry may sound like a far cry from dressmaking, but Paris is using it in planning her fashions, nevertheless. Many of the season's fashion successes are among those dresses which were planned on paper, from artists' drawings, long before scissors or pins were put to cloth.

* * *

RULES OF balance, of perspective and of color subordination are called into use in the progress of making many a French gown. A sleeve's fullness may be changed a dozen times in a drawing, or a sash's bow may be tied and untied as many times before the result satisfies the designer.

* * *

THERE IS much of assymetrical design in the two dresses shown in today's sketches—one from Louiseboulanger, the other from Chantal. Both have the same tendency to relieve any monotony of pattern by varying shoulder lines and by unexpected slanting cuts. Both fall in the general plan of fullness about the shoulders and elbows, fitted lines about the waist, then a return to fullness at the skirt's hem.

* * *

THE LOUISEBOULANGER dress is an example of the current Paris interest in dotted patterns for afternoon. Cape and lower portion of the skirt are of brown crepe de chine, dotted with green; the blouse, skirt-yoke and sash-ties are of green crepe de chine dotted with brown. Many tiny plaits are concentrated at the left-front of the skirt.

* * *

THE CHANTAL dress gets its name "Pistache" from the pale yellowish-green color of its fabric—a crepe romain made of woolen but having the appearance of silk. The sleeves, cut in a new bellows form, follows the lines of stitching which, in their horizontal arrangement, give a widened effect to the shoulders.

Polo Not Expensive Sport, Stars Say

Polo is not as expensive sport. It can be played at a comparatively reasonable figure and is due for increased popularity in the Pittsburgh district. These and other features of the sport were discussed by Thomas King McCreery and David I. McCahill, Jr., leading members of the Pittsburgh Polo Club team, during the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE last evening, following a not so enlightening but entertaining "chat" on polo indulged in between Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, who acted as master of ceremonies, and Herbert McGee, WCAE announcer.

Miss Marian Salmon, pianist for the Seals, furnished the musical setting.

BACKACHES

LIKE so many other women—perhaps like yourself—Mrs. Burroughs used to suffer with severe backaches every month. Then she tried Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Shortly afterwards she wrote to us, "I believe it to be the best medicine I ever used. I sleep well, my nerves are better, my appetite is improved and I am getting stronger all the time."

Modern Wives Are Expected To Be Intelligent

Does a beautiful bride need education?

Will her hero care whether she's a college grad or not, so long as she gives him old-fashioned strawberry shortcake, with kisses between every bite?

Renee thinks she doesn't, and he won't; so she's strong for chucking school right now and leaping from the altar into the kitchenette. And is the family putting up a row?

Listen!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I am writing to you because I am hoping that you can help me settle an argument that is raging in my family just now.

"I am engaged to a nice, ambitious young man. I am also still in school—first year at the U. I want to quit when I finish this semester and get married, but my mother and father and my older sister all say that I would be foolish to do it—that I should go on and finish my education.

Now I like school well enough, but someway I just can't see the use of it. I want to make my husband a good wife, and I would like to start out our married life now, without waiting. Of course he would, too, and we have tentatively set our date for some time this summer.

"So the argument goes on and on, and sometimes I don't know what to think.

"My argument is that it will mean lots more to Tom for me to be a good housekeeper, able to cook him good, wholesome meals—he lives in a boarding house now and hates it—than it will be for me to go on and get my degree and be 'educated.'

PREFERS HOUSEKEEPING

"I like housekeeping, and I can't really see the use of stuffing my head with a lot of stuff out of books, even if my family, including my sister, all are university graduates. All that just doesn't seem to matter to me. I want to get down to living!

"Which do you think is the most important for a girl—to be 'educated,' or to be a good wife?

"Please help me. Between my own desire and their arguing, I just don't know what to do.

"RENEE."

What do you mean by "a good wife," Renee? Once upon a time it meant an efficient housekeeper. Now it means plenty more.

Your grandfather was satisfied if your grandmother provided him with a comfortable home, and proved a loving mother to his children. Her methods might be sloppy, her conversation might be dull, and she might know as little about the world in which he lived as a china nest egg. That didn't matter. Women weren't expected to know things. All women were like that, and men, leaving them to go out in the exclusively masculine world, could easily forget the dear little dumbbell at home.

A GRAVE RISK

But all women aren't like that nowadays, Renee, and the world is no longer exclusively masculine.

When your husband leaves home he will meet as many women workers as men workers. These women will have trained minds. They will be current, up-to-the-minute, stepping along in the rapid tempo of the office world. They will know all about your husband's problems and how best to meet them. He will depend on those women. He will inevitably compare their methods and their equipment with yours.

Do you think you can meet that comparison if you stop school now? It's a grave risk, Renee, and if you are planning to marry an ambitious, intelligent fellow, I wouldn't risk it, if I were you. Being a wife is a regular job in 1932.

Fay King Comments on Changes of Heart and Mates in Hollywood

MY HUSBAND'S NEW WIFE IS VERY CHARMING!
DELIGHTED TO MEET YOU!
I'VE HEARD SUCH LOVELY THINGS ABOUT YOU!
I HATE THEM BOTH!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Well one thing that Hollywood has proved to the world is that past wives, present wives and future wives can manage to remain in the same spot and be rather amiable about it.

Naturally one regrets that there are so many changes of heart and mates, but as long as this must be it seems better, indeed, that it can be done with a degree of dignity and congeniality rather than hate and bitterness.

These friendly disagreements are certainly easier on everyone concerned than if a hostess were to faint with terror when she saw among her guests two previous married persons with their new "hearts."

Elimination of bitterness is something gained even if love is lost, and one must admire splendid self-control.

Contract Bridge

How to Play and How to Win

When to Pass and Why.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Recently in a Duplicate Bridge game in New York City, one of the ranking experts sat down at a table with his partner opposite two amateur students of the game. They were discussing an unsatisfactory result obtained on a hand, and one of them turned to the expert and said:

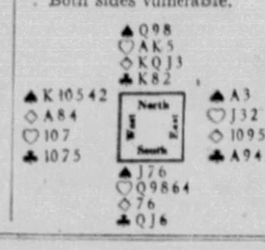
"If you open with a bid of one diamond, to which partner responds with one spade, and you then bid two no-trump, should not your partner bid further?"

"Only once in a blue moon," the expert replied, "would I pass under these circumstances."

A little bit later the expert and his partner, at another table, held the following hand:

North—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 ◇	Pass
1 ♡	Pass	2 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

As a low club was opened, and North was able to develop two diamond tricks, three no-trump was made in the play.

"I thought," remarkel North to his expert partner, "that you passed such a bid as that only once in a blue moon."

"This is the occasion," the expert replied, and when the score was examined it was found that the score of three notrump, even though not bid, was the best made by any players holding the North and South hands.

In many instances, South had attempted to play the hand at notrump, and in consequence had lost four spades, one diamond and one club.

South's pass was perfectly proper. The heart response to the diamond Opening bid was fully justified, but the hand did not warrant any further action after North showed the strength of his hand by his bid two notrump. South possessed no reserves upon which to carry the bidding to a higher stage. The happy outcome was just one of those things.

Today's Question:

Dealer bids one notrump and Second Hand passes. What should Third Hand bid on the following hand:

♠ 10 4 3 ♡ 9 7 5 2 ◇ A 10 8 7 5 3 ♣ —

Answer: Third Hand should bid two diamonds, and if partner then bids two no-trump, Third Hand should bid three diamonds — a signoff—indicating that a notrump contract is not desirable.

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Girls Decide to Enlist Ronald in Conspiracy

Mary started and looked at me shrewdly, as I asked her how far she would go to bring Marion back to her senses concerning middle-aged but fascinating "Uncle Charlie" Owen, who for some unknown, but, we were sure, ulterior motive, had proposed marriage to Lillian's winsome young daughter.

"A long way," she said after a few seconds. "What's the big idea?"

"Mr. Owen is out of the picture just now," I said slowly. "If Marion has nothing more interesting to occupy her mind, she is going to think about him."

"Not so good," Mary said as I paused, and I nodded.

"She's very sure of Ronald's devotion, isn't she?" I asked.

"Absolutely! Of course, he was sulky and restive when Owen began rushing her, but that sort of thing is meat and drink to a girl; and you know from the minute Ronald saw Marion, he has never looked at another girl."

"Yes, I know." I rose and began to pace up and down the room, while my scheme revolved in kaleidoscopic fashion before me. "Tell me," I said, stopping suddenly before Mary, "where does Bob Trevellan come into this picture?"

"As near Carolyn as he can get," she replied promptly. "Of course, he's an awful fusser, and has a new girl about every two weeks, but the current attraction is Mrs. Brixton's little lass."

"Has he ever shown any symptoms of being attracted by Marion?" I asked.

TO VAMP RONALD

"No-o. At least I haven't observed him doing any hovering. I don't believe, Auntie Madge, that you could pry him loose from Carolyn just now, if that's your scheme—to get Marion interested in somebody new, so that she'll forget Owen?"

"It isn't," I said smiling, "at least, as far as somebody new is concerned. I do hope she can be made to forget that Owen ever existed. I wanted to make sure that Bob's interest was firmly fixed in some other direction, if Marion should suddenly find herself without a special admirer."

Mary clapped her hands together delightedly.

"I begin to sniff a mouse or two," she said. "And you can be sure that Bob won't give her any time for the next few days. Carolyn has him pretty well hobbled, and she won't let go the lariat."

"Then," I said, "will you try your skill at vamping Ronald?"

She started, and then laughed dubiously.

"And what will Ronald be doing all the time I am putting forth my best efforts? Remember, he doesn't know I'm on earth except as a sort of elder cousin and background to Marion. You flatter me, darling, and I thank you for the compliment, but I'm afraid you'll slip up on that scheme. I thought you meant to ship Ronald back to the camp; but if he stays around here, I know he won't look at me."

A GALLANT LAD

"I'm not so sure of that, Mary," I told her, smiling. And, indeed, her loveliness would have warranted a temporary wandering of any young man's affections. "But I'm not counting upon your attractiveness at all, except as a potent cause for Marion's jealousy. What I'm planning to do is to cast you and Ronald for leading roles in a little comedy; and I shall lay my cards face up on the table for Ronald's inspection, before I write the lines."

"Oh, you clever darling!" Marion cried. "But—aren't you afraid Ronald will balk at a bit of play-acting like that? Boys are terribly fussy, you know; especially boys of that age."

"I know," I said, "and I realize exactly all the obstacles I shall have to hurdle. But I'm counting on one very strong impulse in Ronald's make-up."

"And that is?"

"His chivalry." I never have seen a more gallant lad, and I think if I can make him see that Marion is in danger of being swept off her feet by this diabolical schemer, Owen, he will be willing to do anything to foil him."

"I hope so," Mary said, but her tone was so dubious that I looked sharply at her.

"What is is that you're holding back, Mary?" I asked. "Tell me."

"It's only this," she said hesitantly. "Ronald's been the whole Stilton as far as Marion is concerned for over a year. He may surmise things about Owen now, but he isn't sure of anything. If you tell him that Marion is in real danger of falling for Owen, he's likely to make an altitude ascension that won't bring him down within 10 miles of me."

"I'll have to take that risk," I said. "I shall try, of course, to make him realize that Marion's feeling for Owen is the most ephemeral of emotions; but I don't see any other way, do you?"

"No, I don't," she answered promptly. "And I'll help you every way I can. But—" She hesitated, then her lips quirked into a wry grin—"have you thought what Noel is going to do when he comes into the picture?"

Household Hints

If you are trying to cut very fresh bread for sandwiches and making a bungle of it, heat the bread knife slightly and the bread will slice without breaking or losing its shape.

Mothers, sometimes the easiest way to end the argument with the young child is to give in to what he wants, but don't forget there will be another bigger argument next time if he finds he can wear you out by constant coaxing and nagging. Be sure you are right and then be firm about it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

High Blood Pressure Overtaxes the Heart

Worry, fear and emotional excitement are among the common causes of high blood pressure, and during our present stormy times it is probable that an unusual number of persons suffer from it. There are many causes of high blood pressure, of course, but I regard emotional strain as one of the most important. Infection, hardening of the arteries, kidney disease, heart disease and certain infectious diseases are causes that can be controlled by medicines and treatment, but emotional strain and excitement are difficult for the physician to treat. Only the sufferer can avoid and prevent emotional distress. Even with great care, it is difficult to control unexpected emotional disturbances.

Dr. Copeland

Overeating is another cause that the patient can control by his own efforts. A diet may be prescribed by your physician, but good as it may be in quality, it is worthless if too large quantities are consumed. Too much food brings extra flesh, and high blood pressure is more common in overweight individuals than those of normal weight.

Most persons who seek advice about their blood pressure are those who are overworked, either mentally or physically. Where the brain is used extensively, the blood pressure rises the same as after severe physical exertion, and until there is rest and relaxation for the tired body or brain, the pressure tends to remain high. If, in addition to severe mental or physical exertion, there is emotional strain, the blood pressure will be raised for a considerable length of time.

Within the last decade the subject of focal infection has aroused great interest, and though not definitely the cause of high blood pressure, infections in diseased teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, the gall bladder and appendix must be considered as important factors in producing high pressure.

These centers of infection should be removed whenever possible. In addition to their relation to high blood pressure, they are detrimental to the general health of the body.

Persistent high blood pressure is dangerous. It places more work upon the heart, and may weaken and damage this vital organ, as the heart becomes enlarged and its muscles weak.

In addition, high blood pressure may affect the kidneys. Bright's disease and other forms of kidney disease are often associated with high pressure. Many of the simple causes I have mentioned are too frequently overlooked by the sufferer.

Too much is expected of medicines, for as a matter of fact very little benefit can be derived from medicines for cure of high blood pressure. The relief given by medicines is only temporary.

Persons with high blood pressure require rest and careful attention. All excitement and severe exertion should be avoided. Mental or physical fatigue is dangerous.

Hot baths and cold baths are harmful, but warm baths are beneficial. Daily intestinal elimination is essential, and if necessary an enema should be taken to avoid any tendency to constipation, because this results in the collection of poisons within the body. Above all, seek rest, relaxation and freedom from worry or excitement.

AMELIA GREETS 1ST NEW ESSEX

DETROIT, July 21.—Introduction by the Hudson Motor Car Company of a new Essex line presenting a new kind and type of automobile, which, for the first time, is said to incorporate principles of airplane construction in automobiles and sell in the very lowest price class is being celebrated with gala ceremonies here today. Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly the Atlantic alone, christened with airplane gasoline the first car off the production line.

Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker, of Michigan; Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit; leading manufacturers in the automobile industry, 2,000 Hudson-Essex distributors and dealers from every section of the United States and Canada and thousands of residents of the city participated.

W. J. McAneeny, president of the Hudson company, announced car No. 1, christened by Miss Earhart, was presented to Orville Wright, of Dayton, O., inventor of the first practical airplane. Wright came here two weeks ago for a private preview of the new automobile. Following the christening, 2,000 of the new cars were driven through the streets of Detroit.

While in Detroit Miss Earhart was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Chapin. Chapin is chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Car Company.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Rule of Grammar.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In this sentence, "If I were her (or she) I would say this to him." Which word, HER or SHE, is correct, and will you tell me the grammatical reason?

Thanking you for the many times you have assisted our club with correct manners and proper English. A. M.

In this sentence SHE is correct after WERE. A good rule to remember about this...and an easy one ... is that after any part of the verb TO BE we use the same case that is used before it. That is, in your sentence, I is, of course, in the nominative case; therefore after the WERE we use SHE, the nominative case.

At a Formal Dance.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a reader of your column and enjoy reading it very much. It helps one to keep up with the present times.

1. When a girl has a bid for a formal dance or a social, who hands the bid to the person at the door, the girl or the man?

2. If the girl wants a corsage, and the man does not suggest it, what is the proper procedure?

L.

1. The girl gives it to the man when he comes to take her to the party, and he hands it to the attendant at the door.

2. It is quite proper for the girl to buy her own corsage, as one of the accessories of her costume.

Extreme Local Taxing Power Aim of Bill

—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, July 21.—A perfect example of the lengths at which legislation can be aimed in an atmosphere of hysteria by a Legislature dancing in the dark, as this one is, is furnished by the tax permissive bill introduced by Representative Philip Sterling, of Philadelphia, approved by the House, and ready for final action in the Senate next Monday night.

Mr. Shields

Sterling introduced the bill "by request," a notation members put on legislation when they feel no pride or parenthood. It was put before Assembly at the instance of Philadelphia officials, whose community is officially bankrupt, whose borrowing power is gone, and who are frantic in an effort to locate new sources of revenue. Through amendment in the Senate yesterday both Pittsburgh and Allegheny County can partake of its broad terms.

The measure permits local taxing bodies to put an impost on anything not taxed by the state. Nothing could have greater latitude.

Both county and city could impose occupational taxes, as was the case when this tax was a prerequisite to voting. Theater admission and club dues could become a source of revenue, real estate transactions and mortgages could bear an impost. Hotel bills could be taxed, as Quebec does for the purposes of raising money for hospitalization.

Why, City Council and the Commissioners could even tax each golf stroke, which would amount to confiscation for some of us.

* * *

Pinchot May Put It Up to Communities

It is probable the measure will pass the Senate and go to the Governor for signature. Its fate there is undetermined, but it appears to come within the scope of the call, and is a matter for local decision rather than the state, which may lead Pinchot to sign.

It is now apparent that the current special session will last two weeks more. That means Gov. Pinchot will be permitted time to bring charges for removal of Emerson Collins, Public Service Commissioner, before the Senate.

Should the Legislature, by some unexpected spurt toward adjournment, manage to get out of Harrisburg next week, there is consideration in the Governor's office of a special session of the Senate alone to consider the Collins charges. The attack on Mr. Collins is based solely on his alleged incapacity to attend to his duties because of illness. It would require only a short time for the Senate to establish whether these charges are well founded.

* * *

$50,000 Expense Might Be Bargain for Public

At most, a special session—which can be called, under the circumstances, without reconvening the House—would require no more than two weeks. The entire cost would not be more than $50,000, even if every Senator took the full extra-session pay to which he would be entitled—which is doubtful.

As the removal of Collins would mean a complete revolution in control of the Public Service Commission, readjusting its attitude toward the matter of utility rates and services, there is a disposition in the Governor's office to believe taxpayers would feel that for $50,000 they had a bargain.

Some alert attention to public service rather than to public utilities would save this $50,000 many times in short order.

* * *

Utilities Wish Fisher Had Ousted Collins

An informal poll of a few senators, representatives of the group which has consistently opposed Mr. Pinchot on utility legislation, indicates there would be concurrence in the demand by the Governor for Collins' removal.

There is, it is true, some criticism that Mr. Pinchot acted "brutally" in publicly demanding the resignation of Collins because of ill health, then filing formal charges when the resignation was not forthcoming. Ironically, this criticism comes chiefly from sources which find fault with former Gov. John S. Fisher for not having been equally as brutal in the closing days of his administration, when he "invited" the resignation of Collins, then abandoned the whole project when the Lycoming County man declined.

What they mean is that, had Collins been forced out two years ago, there would be in his place a commissioner satisfactory to the utilities rather than the prospect of one satisfactory to the rate payers.

Gollmar Finds Coyne, But Not Officially

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, of Allegheny County, was a Harrisburg visitor during the week. It will be recalled that the Sheriff reported to the Allegheny County courts last week that he was unable to locate for service in a damage case that ubiquitous citizen of the whole county, Senator James J. Coyne.

It was thought that perhaps the Sheriff was looking for the Senator here. However, it transpired that he was merely on his way home from a sheriffs' convention at Scranton.

He met the unfindable Senator in the halls of the Senate, and again in front of the Hotel Harrisburger as the Senator clambered into his automobile on his way to Pittsburgh yesterday. Perhaps the Sheriff will have equal luck in locating the Senator now in Pittsburgh.

Aged Mother of Mooney Here

MRS. MARY MOONEY, BIBLE IN HAND . . . FIGHTING FOR SON

The 84-year-old mother of Tom Mooney in Pittsburgh today, continuing her nation-wide fight to secure freedom for her son, serving a life term in San Quentin prison, California, for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing in 1916. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

'Mother Mooney' Here, Raps Snub by Hoover

Scores President For Seeing Vallee, Excluding Her

President Hoover's refusal to see her at the White House notwithstanding he had time for a radio crooner and movie star, was an unforgettable memory to Mrs. Mary Mooney, 84, today as she rested before opening two days' local meetings to create support for the 16-year fight to release her son, Tom, from San Quentin Prison.

Known over the country as "Mother Mooney," though weary and travel-worn, she expressed a determination to continue fighting for her son's release. Mrs. Mooney arrived at midnight from Bellaire, O. She was met at the Baltimore and Ohio station by a committee of the International Labor Defense. The cheering crowd accompanied her to the William Penn Hotel.

SCORES HOOVER

Discussing her visit to the White House some months ago, Mrs. Mooney said:

"The President sent word with his secretary he was unable to see me. The day before he was able to see Rudy Vallee and the day after my visit greeted Billie Dove. If I were some rich movie person it would have been different. I can never forgive him."

Commenting on the inability to see Gov. Rolfe, of California, last April, she said:

"He was in too much of a hurry to go to a big dinner somewhere."

PRAISES WALKER

She expressed admiration for the support Mayor James Walker game the vain fight to release her son, saying he was "certainly a nice man." Mrs. Mooney has traveled 8,000 miles since leaving California on a tour to win additional public support. While suffering from the severe heat wave, she will continue to the New York district after the meetings here.

Mrs. Mooney will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting sponsored by the International Labor Defense tomorrow night in the Academy Theater. The following night a banquet will be given in her honor at the Y. M. & W. H. A. Other meetings are scheduled for Cloverdale on Saturday and in Cheswick and McKeesport Saturday. She will leave here Tuesday for Johnstown.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I see where Mr. Mellon is coming home "bringing the data on the economic conference." "A conference—a conference." That's all we have had for years. The world has just conferred itself into bankruptcy. There hasn't been a conference since the beginning of the war that hasn't stirred up more hate, and done more harm than it has good.

Will Rogers

A conference is just an admission that you want somebody to join you in your troubles. The world can't improve till it gets so poor that it can't send delegates to a conference. Then it will begin to improve by depending on itself. Yours,

WILL.

TEAR GAS GUNS RUSHED TO CAPITAL

Firm Here Supplying U. S. With Maces, Projectiles

A shipment of tear gas guns, hand grenades, projectile guns and gas maces, first under a new government contract with the Federal Laboratories, is en route from Pittsburgh to Washington today.

The gas equipment, destined for police use against riot, will be distributed among the various government police agencies including the Department of Justice and the District of Columbia police. It could not be learned whether the Bonus Expeditionary Force in Washington had anything to do with the shipment at this time.

NEW CONTRACT

John W. Young, president of Federal Laboratories, declared the shipment is under a new contract awarded his company for the ensuing year's supply. He said:

"The Federal Laboratories are shipping gas equipment for federal police use now in accordance with the terms of our agreement. I do not know to what use it will be put other than its regular purpose to combat crime and protect property."

He denied it had anything to do with the bonus army.

The Federal Laboratories plant, Forty-first street, has been working full time to fill orders for police and protective agencies during the past few months, Young revealed.

RECORD BUSINESS

He declared last month's business was the second largest in the history of the company, which recently has enlarged its scope in the ordnance field.

The company now controls rights to the sale and manufacture of the Thompson sub-machine gun, used extensively by police throughout the country. Previously it was possible for any person to purchase these weapons, which fire .45 caliber bullets at the rate of 600 a minute, but under a new policy by the Federal Laboratories, the guns will not be sold under any circumstances to individuals but only to municipal and private police organizations or those who agree to aid in keeping the weapons out of criminal hands.

GOV. ROOSEVELT FIGHTS TREATY

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21.—(INS.)—Having challenged the good faith and accuracy of President Hoover, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt squared away today for a battle royal with the federal government for refusing to agree on New York's share of the power development cost prior to the signing of the treaty.

The Democratic presidential nominee will ignore President Hoover in the future so far as the treaty is concerned, and will carry his fight to the United States Senate.

He is planning a personal appearance later in the summer before the Senate sub-committee to demand a "square deal" for New York before the treaty is ratified. Feeling that New York was needlessly snubbed by the federal government while the treaty was in process of negotiation, and that official Washington "ran out" on promises it had made to the state, the Governor is prepared to make the treaty one of the issues of the presidential campaign.

CRASH ON SPAN INJURES 4

Four persons were injured and a number of passengers were shaken when a Perrysville avenue street car collided with the rear end of a produce truck hauling six tons of cabbages on the Seventh Street Bridge last night.

The injured were Mrs. M. I. Evans, 40, of 601 Chestnut street, a passenger on the street car, and Frank Stanick, 57, of 2431 Howard street, operator of the car, and Otto Jaeschke, 43, owner and driver of th truck, and Edward Asch, 29, his helper, both of Colton, O. All were taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

While sitting on steps in the rear of his home, Martin Gannon, 48, of 601 West Diamond street, was painfully injured when struck by an automobile truck. Elmer Lutz, 21, of 2378 East Beckert street, driver of the truck, said he thought the machine was in reverse when he started it. Lutz was arrested by police, who said he had no driver's license.

GUN TOTER GETS 3 YEARS

Judge W. Heber Dithrich today in Criminal Court imposed the severest sentence ever given here in a firearms case when Francis Foley, 22, of Steubenville, O., pleaded guilty to carrying a revolver.

Foley was sent to the workhouse for three years, the maximum sentence.

He admitted having sawed his way out of the Bellaire (Ohio) jail several days before his arrest here July 9. He told the court he took the gun from a man who tried to rob him in Schenley Park.

FIRST WINNER RIDICULES MARATHON

Marianne Jacques Raps Easy Rules of Contest

Marianne Jacques, of 2312 Fifth avenue, a winner of Pittsburgh's first dance marathon, today declared the contest at Motor Square Garden is a joke, in which rules mean nothing. She said:

"The Motor Square Garden dance marathon is nothing but a joke. It should go on indefinitely when the dancers are allowed to break all the rules. They dance very little and spend extra time off the floor. This contest is tame compared to the former topple-over, carry-them-out dance marathons."

RULES NOT STRICT

A 24-hour time check on each participant in the Motor Square dance marathon, supported Miss Jacque's observations. The check showed that the rules, easy compared to some of the previous marathons, are frequently broken.

The rules allow the dancers seven hours and 45 minutes off the floor each day, but some of the dancers were found to spend more than nine hours off the floor.

The dancers also break the rule requiring them to dance three minutes out of every ten. The total time they should spend dancing amounts to more than five hours, but the members of the bunion derby spend less than two hours dancing each day.

LEAN ON RAILS

Many other rules of the contest are also being broken. In the wee hours of the morning the dancers lean on the rails and stand in one spot for 10 and 20 minutes at a time.

If a dancer faints on the floor he or she is allowed 15 minutes before returning. Two girls, during their last fainting spells were checked as being off the floor for more than 25 minutes.

PAIR ESCAPES, ABANDONS AUTO

Officers Investigating Car Without Lights Fired Upon

A Reserve Township constable was shot in the leg and arm early today in a pistol battle with two unidentified men in a driveway leading to the Ridgelawn Cemetery, off Mt. Troy road.

Eighteen shots were fired, the wounded constable told police.

The wounded man, Constable Carl Hildebrand, 28, of 4 Emma street, was taken to Allegheny General Hospital, where his condition was said to be fair.

PARKED AUTO

Hildebrand was accompanied by Constable Joseph Stoneworth, also of Reserve Township, when they found the machine, parked without lights in the cemetery driveway. Stoneworth said:

"As we approached the automobile two men alighted and started firing. Each of them had two revolvers. Both Hildebrand and I dropped to the ground, returning the fire. After about 18 shots had been fired, the two men fled and escaped in the underbrush along the edge of the cemetery."

Stoneworth said he believed one of the fleeing men had been shot. He said he heard one of them cry out as he fled.

PATROLLING ROADS

The officers are reported to have told police they were touring Reserve Township roads in search of automobiles parked without lights. Ridgelawn Cemetery, they said, is part of the territory they patrol.

After the escape of the two men, Stoneworth said he took Hildebrand to the hospital. In the meantime an unidentified man rushed into Engine Company No. 51, on Troy Hill, and told firemen there of the shooting. The firemen notified the North Side Police Station, which dispatched a police radio car to investigate.

Shortly afterward county detectives were notified. They plan to scour the countryside today in search of the men.

STOLEN PLATES

While police were at the scene of the battle, an automobile approached and its occupant told police he had an engagement to meet Constable Hildebrand in the driveway at 2 a. m.

In the automobile the fugitives abandoned, county detectives reported finding two felt hats, a vest and a cap. In the lining of the vest, they said, was printed in ink the name of a man, which they are withholding.

The license plates on the abandoned machine had been issued to C. B. McQuiston, of 74 Semicir street, North Side. They were reported stolen on July 15, police said.

Grand Jury Breaks All Previous Marks

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said today that the grand jury yesterday broke all records in disposing of 140 cases. The jury returned 203 indictments after sitting until 6 o'clock.

Assistant District Attorney Ralph Hunter, who presented the cases, also was congratulated by the District Attorney for his work.

Hot Days Make Political Pots Boil in Europe

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

With Von Hindy grabbing Germany by the ears this is a nice time to stay under your own cool tree.

The old boy has slapped everything under military rule. That's what they call a coop detatt. Which means you get the hen and the other guy gets the feathers.

It means that a state of war exists exactly like the time when your best girl was up in front with Clark Gable driving and you were in the rumble seat.

Well, those German nudists are neutral anyway. Nobody can accuse them of being in an enemy uniform.

We were hoping to get over to Berlin this season and do some deep breathing in a stein of Pilsener. But now we'll go to Canada and have a merry old paper chase with the Royal Northwest Mounted.

Both Von Hindy and Mussolini fired their cabinets yesterday, and the boys stole 50 seconds' start on a minute's notice.

We prefer the America brand of politics. It may be expensive, but the old ax-head doesn't fly off the handle in hot weather.

TRAFFIC SAFETY GAINS HERE

Traffic accidents in Pittsburgh were 22.1 per cent fewer during the first half of 1932 than during the same period last year, according to the monthly accident report of the Bureau of Traffic Planning.

Deaths in traffic during June totaled six as compared with 16 last June, the second consecutive month in which automobile fatalities have shown sharp declines from 1931, according to the report. The May total was 10 as compared with 20 for the same month last year.

Co-operation of police, the Better Traffic Committee, Traffic Court, the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council and the Planning Bureau were credited with the results by Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer.

Architect's Home Damaged by Fire

The three-story stone and frame home of Fred J. Osterling, architect, of 3503 California avenue, was damaged $8,000 by fire said to have resulted from workmen burning off paint. Miss Bertha Osterling, sister of the architect, in the dwelling when the fire started, escaped without harm.

Widow Questioned About Fire in Wall

Mrs. Mary Dubaic, a widow, of 67 Wall avenue, Wall, was questioned by county detectives today about a fire in her home July 13. She and her children, absent when the fire occurred, returned home yesterday, she told detectives. County Fire Marshal T. L. Pfarr said rolls of gasoline-soaked paper had been found in the place.

LABOR DEMANDS FIVE-DAY WEEK

ATLANTIC CITY, July 21.—(AP.)—A five-day week and six-hour day "forced" upon industry through the pressure of public opinion expressed by President Hoover, is the American Federation of Labor's plan for relieving unemployment.

The executive council of the federation proposed the program yesterday through its spokesman, William Green, the federation president, as the only cure for unemployment. The statement declared:

"The executive council now demands and shall continue to demand that industrial management be compelled to act through the pressure of public opinion expressed, as we hope it will be, by the Chief Executive of the nation."

NEW BUS LINE TO BRENTWOOD DEBATED

Efforts of Pittsburgh Railways Company counsel failed to force D. L. Fike, president of the Brentwood Motor Coach Company, to testify that his firm plans to terminate part of its service in Dormont if its application for a new bus route from Pittsburgh to Brentwood is granted and the line fails to produce revenue from the entire route.

Arguments on the Brentwood firm's application were heard before Public Service Commissioner William E. Best, and resulted in the railways filing a protest opposing granting of the franchise. The proposed route would begin at the Ferry street terminal, proceeding through the Liberty Tubes to West Liberty avenue, to Pioneer avenue, to Knowlson street, to McNeilly avenue and road, to Saw Mill Run boulevard, terminating at Brownsville road, Brentwood.

More than 50 witnesses, 32 women, testified for the franchise applicant. The majority stressed the need of a new services in Pioneer avenue for the West Liberty district, pointing out no direct connection was available from Dormont to Brentwood. New territory could be developed, it was declared.

Four new buses would operate on 20-minute schedule from 6:30 a. m. until midnight, Pike said. A 20-cent cash or 15-cent token fare would be charged.

Boy Scout Battling Fire in Camp Burned

One Boy Scout suffered burns fighting a blaze with four other Bellevue boys last night as flames that destroyed their camp threatened to spread to a cabin of the Bellevue troop in Lowrie Run road near the Shannopin Country Club.

Hugh McElroy, 11, of 653 Tingley avenue, Bellevue, was slightly burned on the arms. His companions were Leo McMullin, 17; Kenneth Glitch, 12; Homer Gray, 15, and Harold Keil, 10, all of Tingley avenue. The boys lost two tents and supplies in the camp they occupied each night as embers of a camp fire ignited grass.

SOUTH HILLS BOYS BUILD GLIDERS

Frank, 16, of 42 Cowan street, explaining how to operate the new glider constructed by himself, Earl Myers, 18, of Virginia avenue, and James Criswell, 18, of 460 Oneida street. They built one last year, but it soared only 12 feet. Hence their new effort which they are sure will fly over Pittsburgh within the next few weeks. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

3 SCHOOL BOYS BUILD GLIDER

Three South Hills High School boys are about to satisfy a three years' ambition—to successfuly fly in their own glider. The idea took root when they started to build small models of airplanes.

The three are Earl Myers, 18, Virginia avenue; James Criswell, 18, 460 Oneida street, and Frank Moore, 16, 42 Cowan street.

Their idea developed last year when they built their first glider. They weren't satisfied with it because it wouldn't gain more than 12 feet in altitude. Now they are putting the finishing touches to a new glider, on which they have worked for two months. They are sure it will really fly. In fact, they intend to "ride" it into the air within two weeks.

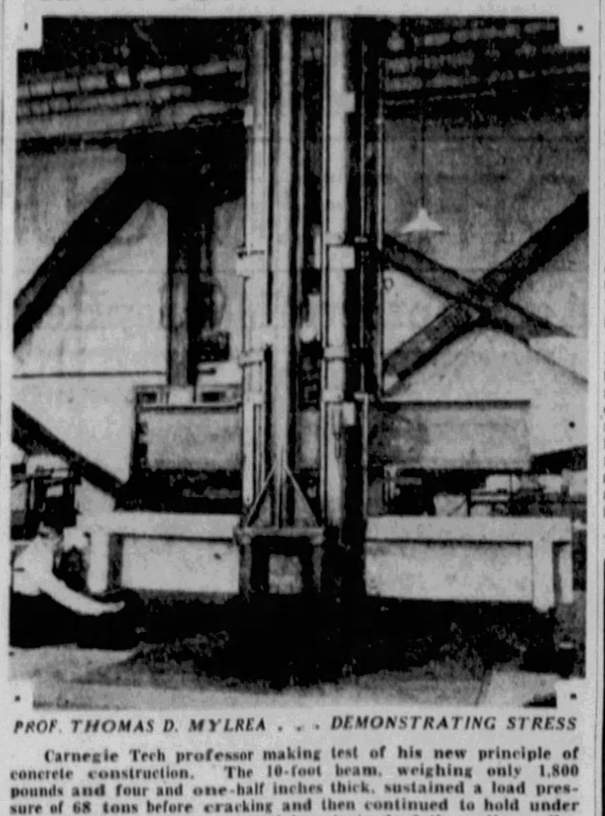
BEAM SUPPORTS 68 TONS



PROF. THOMAS D. MYLREA . . . DEMONSTRATING STRESS

Carnegie Tech professor making test of his new principle of concrete construction. The 10-foot beam, weighing only 1,800 pounds and four and one-half inches thick, sustained a load pressure of 68 tons before cracking and then continued to hold under 70-tons. He uses 20 small steel bars instead of the ordinary five large ones to strengthen the beam. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Woodcock Assails Buyers of Liquor

NEW ORLEANS, July 21.—(AP.)—Of the two—bootlegger and purchaser—Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, federal director of prohibition, says the latter is worse. The consumer is "the real culprit," he told an audience of prohibition adherents here. He said:

"He is the one who causes so many people to be sent to the penitentiary."

NEW CONCRETE BEAM SUCCESS

Prof. Thomas D. Mylrea, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, today had proven the practicability of his new principle of concrete beam construction. A 10-foot beam, weighing only 1,800 pounds and measuring four and a half inches in thickness, sustained a load of 68 tons before cracking in a demonstration yesterday. Furthermore, the beam was still holding, with a 70-ton pressure applied.

The principle, applied by Prof. Mylrea for the first time in a major test, consists of using 20 small steel bars instead of the ordinary five large bars to strengthen a concrete beam, and in anchoring the bars so they do not slip or split. All sharp bends are eliminated and the bars are arranged in gradual curves within the beam.

RAID BREWERY ON FARM IN BEECHVIEW

3 Flee as Drys Seize Suspect, 3 Autos, Beer and Mash

One man was arrested, three others escaped and three automobiles were seized when prohibition agents raided an alleged wildcat brewery on the William Lau farm, Beechview, early today. Reports of a shooting which brought a squad of Mt. Washington police were denied by the agents.

The man arrested gave his name as Benjamin Manuel, the agents reported. The identity of his companions is known, according to the federal officers, who said they had watched from dense underbrush the loading of three cars with barreled beer.

Besides 1,200 gallons of beer ready for barreling, the agents reported seizing six tanks of 300-gallon capacity filled with mash and a large quantity of beer-making equipment.

The brewery was in an old stone house on the Lau farm at the head of Westfield avenue, Beechview.

Four stills with a total capacity of 2,600 gallons, two boilers and 16,000 gallons of mash were seized by federal prohibition agents in a raid on a two-story building in the rear of 1531 Federal street, North Side, early today. The equipment, which included hundreds of empty cans and a large supply of alcohol-making material, was valued at $5,000 by the agents. The mash was poured into sewers.

Constable R. E. Switzer, from Alderman A. W. Headley's office, was in charge of the building when the raiders entered. Switzer believed they were bootleggers for whom he had waited 24 hours, but when explanations were made he turned the seizure over to the agents.

Springdale Home Damaged by Fire

While the family was away, fire early this morning damaged the home of M. B. Fulton at Orrville, near Springdale. Springdale firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals. They estimated the damage at $600 and said the flames were caused by spontaneous combustion.

'Buried Alive' Record Challenged by Girl

JANE BOYD . . . SHE SAYS SHE'LL BE BURIED ALIVE

Fifth Ave. Miss Plans 9 Days Underground Without Food

Jane Boyd, 21, of 2029 Fifth avenue, doesn't mind a little bit being buried alive. At least, that's what she said when she announced today that she will attempt to break all records for that latest fad, starting Friday at 3 p. m.

Miss Boyd decided she could stay under six feet of earth without food for nine days after Charles Renner, South Hills youth, recently established his record of eight days and three hours.

She will live in a box just large enough for herself and a mattress, electric light and cigarets.

Asked what she would do when hungry, she said:

"That's worrying me."
"Do you think it will be fun?"
"I'll tell you that better when I come up."

LUMBER YARD BURNS IN IRWIN

One fireman was slightly injured and damage estimated at $50,000 was done last night when fire destroyed the H. E. Detar Lumber Company in Irwin.

Traffic was tied up on the Lincoln highway for six miles as more than 5,000 spectators watched firemen from eight nearby towns battle the flames that destroyed the office, planing mill and great quantities of stored lumber.

District Fire Chief James Bouldin suffered a burned right arm when the roof of a storage shed collapsed. The flames were said to have started simultaneously in the office and storage plant.

The fire was discovered by employes of the R. S. Altman grain mill. The grain mill was threatened several times but was not damaged.

Fire companies from Jeannette, Irwin, Hermine, Westmoreland City, Manor, Penn and Greensburg fought the blaze more than three hours.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 21.—(AP.)—Asking re-election "in my own right," Senator Hattie W. Caraway, last night opened her campaign here in a radio speech in which she said she was not "trying to talk like a statesman, but hoped to convince her hearers that she votes like one."

Mrs. Caraway succeeded her husband, the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, for his unexpired term.

Textile Strikers Get Wage Offer

HIGH POINT, N. C., July 21.—(AP.)—Hosiery mill employes, who went on strike Monday and precipitated a general walkout in practically all industrial plants in this and neighboring communities, debated today whether they should return to work at wages prevailing before the pay reduction to which the strike was ascribed.

All hosiery mills, employing about 6,000 workers, were idle today, but other industries, which were closed as the strike spread, were beginning to resume operations.

"We needed money and knew from experience the old lady would not lend us any. So we saw ourselves forced to make the loan against her will."

NEW YORK, July 21.—(INS.)—Mayor James J. Walker indicated he would communicate with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today concerning his delay in filing an answer to the charges pending against him before the Governor.

Reward

There for a space your time was all my own,
You barred the world that I might come and go;
We shared this madness—you and I alone
With ardent vows and youthful eyes aglow;
Small lot we cared whose plans were set astray,
Whose pride was hurt—what friendships went amiss,
We knew one thing—that bliss had come to stay,
That ev'ry answer lurked within a kiss.

But here we are today—the selfsame two—
With weary banners drooping in the dust;
You find you have so many things to do
That I at best must take a beggar's crust;

But consolation lives for me at least
To know we shared a rich and tempting feast.

—Don Wahn.

Sweet and Sour Luck

The passing of Oliver D. Bailey, the showman, brings this one. One day he found a horseshoe and placed it over his Republic Theater stage door. That was the night that "Abie's Irish Rose" first played to capacity—and you know how many years it ran after that.

The succeeding tenant was a rowdy show called "My Girl Friday," which was attacked by press, pulpit and public, and Bailey felt that it was because someone had taken down the horseshoe without telling him. So he instructed it be put back.

That night the show was raided!

We've Met Her

La Guinan can describe people she abhors in the devastating manner. A conceited chorine, frixample, got on her nerves again, and Guinan groaned:

"That gal is always so wrapped in herself—and she makes the darndest looking bundle!"

Squelch

And when one girl was unfolding a series of jokes before a table load of night loafers, she chirped:

"Her mind is like a room that never had the windows open!"

Ouch!

One of the humorous mags recently got a laugh out of its contributors by rejecting submitted stuff with a note that read:

"This is lousy!"

A more devastating squelch is that one used by another publication which sends plagiarists this form letter:

"Thanks for letting us see the manuscript which we are returning. We have already seen the original!"

Merciless Truth

Frank Nagler says it is all very well for this corner to praise actors who merit praise by tossing them an orchid. But that one actor to whom we recently tossed a whole bouquet wasn't a bit impressed. He said he would have preferred getting a scallion—which is something he could eat!

Similes

Charles G. Shaw's: Full of memories as a log fire . . . Anon's: Happy as an old maid being held for ransom . . . George Jean Nathan's: She had no more polish than a hiker's boots.

Novelette

She now is one of the town's better known beauty specialists, and she came here from the old country several years ago. Her intimates wondered why she never encouraged an affair of the heart—but preferred being lonely.

It appears that when she was very young she married. Her husband, a handsome chap, who had strayed with another woman, felt that his wife loved him so devotedly that if he confessed his sin she would forgive him. Instead, she was so stunned by his confession that she told him to leave the house and never return. That was 20 years ago. And she has been an unhappy woman since.

Not long ago she was looking through her window and noticed a man standing across the way. He was fat, ugly and unkempt. She looked again and broke into hysterical laughter! He was her husband—the man over whom she has been miserable for decades.

Now, however, she is seeking a divorce to wed her most persistent admirer, who arranged the "scene" to break the spell.

Boomerang

One of the better stories of Broadway is the one that happened when money was plentiful and playboys were liberal. In those wonderful times, a Ziegfeld gal was admired by a Wall streeter, who urged her not to tell him a lie—but to tell him her correct age. She was 25, but she confessed to 20.

The following night he hurled a surprise party in her honor at a fashionable hotel. On her plate rested a bouquet of 20 American Beauty roses. To each rose was pinned a $1,000 bill!

And they hang pictures!

The Retort Proper

It is supposed to have happened in Hollywood when Charles MacArthur, one of our better authors, was there. At a party, the hostess was congratulating Charles on his latest book—when a second-rate scenario writer interrupted:

"Pardon my being frank, but I read your book, and if it were 10 times better it still wouldn't be literature."

"I don't understand," was the indifferent response. "What in the world would you be doing with literature?"

Naturally

As we left the theater after witnessing "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" the other midnight, the story was recalled about the circus lion that escaped many years ago in a western town. Volunteers were called to hunt it down, and before taking to the hills the party paused at a saloon. All massaged their palates with firewater, except Dexter Fellowes, the circus exploiter.

"What's the matter with you?" Dexter was asked.

"None for me, thanks," was the snapper, "whisky gives me too much courage."

Observation

The excessive heat has given people something to groan about, besides the depression. But, as Frank Vreeland always says, "it really isn't summer until the chair gets up when you do!"

Members of the company (Negro) appearing in "Rhapsody in Black" haven't found the road hard, having been traveling for 73 weeks. It is a production of the season before last and has played repeat engagements in most cities including Pittsburgh, where the second engagement was about the poorest it had anywhere. Cut down to "presentation" time, it has been held for a second week in the Chicago Theater, Chicago, the first time any stage show has been able to do this in that house. Ethel Waters and all other members of the company remain with the show.

May Get Bartley Campbell's Portrait and Mss. for Pittsburgh

By GEORGE SEIBEL

No matter what you say over the air, it is heard everywhere, apparently, and I've just received a letter from the son of Bartley Campbell about some reference to his father in a radio talk a week or two ago. Bartley Campbell was Pittsburgh's most famous playwright—he was born in old Alleghany, over on the North Side, and he is buried here in St. Mary's Cemetery. His son, Robert Campbell, is secretary of the Actors' Fund of America, of which Daniel Frohman is president.

Robert Campbell writes me that he has many programs of the old Pittsburgh Opera House during the '70s and early '80s, which he will contribute to the collection being made for the Carnegie Institute—also an oil painting of Bartley Campbell done by Lysander Thompson, which hung for many years in Bartley Campbell's theater in New York.

Mr. Seibel

GOTTHOLD HIS FRIEND

"Your reference to J. Newton Gotthold," he says in his letter, "calls up the memory of one of the great friends of my boyhood. It was Ellsler and Gotthold who commissioned my dear father to write his first play for their theater. This piece was 'Through Fire.' Many years afterwards, during Bartley Campbell's very successful years in the theater, Gotthold originated a leading role in his Irish romance, 'My Geraldine,' at the Standard Theater, New York, December 21, 1880.

"Your reference to an early play of his called 'Risks' is interesting, and if you do not know it this piece was written solely for Hooley's Theater, Chicago, and the insurance agent was played by John Dillon, who was perhaps the greatest favorite in Chicago during the stock days of which there is any record.

"'The Lower Million' was, as you say, the capital-labor play written around the 1877 railroad riots in Pittsburgh. This was exactly two years prior to the production of his famous 'My Partner' at the Union Square Theater, New York, on September 16, 1879.

"The University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia already has the mss. of 'My Partner' and 'The Galley Slave;' several of his other mss. will shortly be included in the dramatic library of the New York Museum."

MAY GET MSS. HERE

I have suggested to Robert Campbell that at least one of his distinguished father's manuscripts should rest in the city of his birth. Along with Stephen C. Foster, Bartley Campbell was one of the earliest people to let the world know that Pittsburgh could produce something besides iron and steel. He lived only 45 years, but he contributed more to the creation of a native American drama than any other man except perhaps Bronson Howard.

Like many other dramatists, he started from the newspaper profession, after having studied law with little success. He was a reporter for the old Pittsburgh Leader; during the Civil War he founded the Pittsburgh Evening Mail; later he was connected with the Post. The Louisville Courier-Journal and the Cincinnati Enquirer also had his services for brief periods; then he went to New Orleans and founded the Southern Monthly Magazine. That was 1869, and two years later he wrote the sensational play, "Through Fire," which his son tells about in the letter.

NOT ONE IN PRINT

I do not know of a single play of Bartley Campbell's that is in print, though he wrote 23 that I know of.

One of them, called "The Big Bonanza," made $16,000 in four weeks, then considered truly a big bonanza.

One of his plays, "The Virginian," got to London as early as 1876, and "My Partner" reached Berlin in 1883. A friend of mine who saw it there at the Residenz-Theater says the Germans did not understand it—particularly the Chinaman talking pidgin-German puzzled them—yet it ran for about 50 nights. But another play, "The Galley Slave," ran for 83 nights in Berlin during 1881.

TRAINED AS REPORTER

Bartley Campbell had a sense for news, inherited from his duties as reporter, and he often made his plays as up-to-date as the morning papers. We see that in "Risks," which he wrote just about the time when life insurance was beginning to become popular—his life insurance agent, George Washisngton Pembroke, is reported to have been one of John T. Raymond's most amusing roles. And in his last play, "Paquita," he was beginning to realize the coming dramatic revolution which put the conflict inside of the characters instead of outside in the situations—that drama was built around a surgeon who has to perform an operation which saves the life of his wife's lover.

The newspaper instinct is also uppermost in that other drama, "Siberia," which was wringing the hearts of audiences about the same time George Kennan was writing his expose of the Siberian exile system. I don't see why Hollywood doesn't take up "Siberia" for its grand spectacular possibilities.

One line of Bartley Campbell's, I suppose, will live forever. It occurs in "The White Slave," and it is uttered by Liza when the brutal Lacy, who is pursuing the virtuous maiden, tells her: "I can send you to the field to work all day among the common niggers, a hoe in your hands, rags upon your back." Liza answers, "Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake!"

That just shows what a little rhetoric and alliteration will do for the preservation of virtue. That speech always brought down the gallery, which was strong for virtue and justice.

Lady, Gent

Wynne Gibson and George Bancroft in a scene from "Lady and Gent," photoplay coming tomorrow to the Stanley.

Fairbanks, Jr. Showing On Enright Screen

"Love Is a Racket," story of a New York newspaper columnist who knows plenty about rackets and little about love, is the feature attraction in the Enright. The columnist is played by Doug Fairbanks, Jr., Ann Dvorak plays the girl who sticks by Fairbanks through a heavy romance. Frances Dee is the romance. Lee Tracy supplies the comedy.

BITS OF LIFE
All in a Day
By Mark Hellinger

Mistakes Will Happen

WHEN THE Golden outfit went to work on a sucker there was very little chance of failure. For many years now the mob that was headed by old Ned Golden had practised successfully all over the world. They wanted but one question answered before they started work: did the sucker have plenty of dough? If the answer was in the affirmative the sucker's money was as good as in their bank. And maybe better.

The Golden mob had more angles than a shoestring producer. They specialized in no particular racket; they were masters of them all. Under the astute teachings of Ned Golden, they had come to learn that there was a racket that could be applied to every individual.

If a man had position and wealth and headed a family, he was a practical certainty to go via the old badger game. That type of man had to pay off in order to protect his wife and family.

If the sucker was a wise guy who wanted to double his money in a hurry, they'd build him the prettiest of money machines.

It wasn't so long ago, however, that the boys ran into something of a puzzle. The puzzle was William Hardhead, to give him a name of some kind—and William was a tough nut.

Mr. Hardhead didn't gamble. More, he didn't go for strange acquaintances. Still more, he never went around with women.

In due time Ned had his solution. He sent for the best forger in town and obtained specimens of Mr. Hardhead's handwriting and instructed the forger to write an affectionate letter every two or three days to a Miss Daisy Smith.

Mr. Hardhead was woing to be taken over via the old breach of promise racket. The sucker was notified that he had broken the heart of poor, little Daisy Smith—and he was served with papers in a lawsuit that called for $250,000.

Hardhead went to his attorneys and howled to the high heavens. He didn't know what this was all about. He had never known any such woman. He was a victim of a dire conspiracy. His lawyers told him to quiet down and assured him that there was nothing at all to the case.

As it turned out, they were a trifle optimistic. Rest assured that Ned Golden had not gone into the game without preparing plenty of angles. The sucker had been trailed for weeks. His every movement was known—and you can be very certain that, during every moment he had been alone with no proof of his actions, the court was going to hear that he had spent his time with Daisy.

There was a phony hotel register that proved the couple had been registered as man and wife.

Daisy was dumb, but she was beautiful.

On the morning of the trial, old Ned stood with her just inside the courtroom and gave her his final instructions.

"You know exactly how you're to act, Daisy," he told her, "and if you feel one of your dumb spells coming on, just shut your mouth and say nothing. That's Hardhead sitting over there.

"You understand the big part of your act. As soon as Hardhead says he doesn't know you, hit it hard and heavy. You swoon prettily, and as you come to you scream, 'Oh, how can you lie that way? I gave you my all—and you have broken my heart.' That's clear, isn't it?"

"Sure," she replied vaguely, "I understand everything."

The minutes ticked away. Thus far it was all routine. Her eyes closed. She drowsed. It was all very dull to Daisy. Suddenly, as if in a dream, she heard the defense counsel.

"Did you ever see or do you in any way know Miss Daisy Smith?"

She heard a defiant voice saying no. She sat erect. That was her cue. She screamed:

"Oh, how can you lie that way? I gave you my all—and you have broken my heart!"

The reaction was strange. The Golden mob hurried for the door. The courtroom went into a hysterical uproar.

For dumb Daisy had made a slight mistake in her identification. The man she was accusing was not the sucker—but one of the jurors! . . .

Newspaper Film Story In Sheridan

"The Honor of the Press," now showing in the Sheridan Square, is another newspaper yarn in which the reporter is the hero and his boss the villain, and it is quite probable that even the most discouraged reporter in the entire realm of the Fourth Estate will be unable to see his boss in that light. It has some scenes of newspaper activity, and brings in the gangster, too, for this is the kind of a picture that would be nothing without a few thrills. Edward Nugent plays the hero reporter, who digs up the dirt on his boss, played by Wheeler Oakman. Rita La Roy, Dorothy Gulliver and Russell Simpson are in the cast.

COMOROSKY BETTER BET THAN BARBEE

WHILE FORBES FIELD patrons regret to see Dave Barbee leaving the Pirate lineup, because his presence represented a slugging threat that carried a thrill for the home fans and gave the enemy many an anxious moment, there is no question that Manager George Gibson is acting for the immediate best interests of the club in deciding to bench Barbee and put Adam Comorosky in left field on the return of Lloyd Waner to regular duty. Barbee has done his bit for the Bucs in fine style, as a total of half a hundred runs knocked in attests, but right now Comorosky looks like the better bet.

Adam Comorosky

There never was any comparison between the two in fielding or baserunning. Comorosky is the superior man by a wide margin defensively, is much faster, and owns far greater major league experience. Barbee got in there in the first place only because Adam fell into a batting rut and the coast recruit gave promise of a stronger punch. Since Comorosky returned to action he has made 17 hits in 52 times in 13 games for an average of .327. In the same period Barbee has made only eight hits in 49 times at bat for a mark of .163. So there can be no good argument against trying a change, particularly as the long streak of the previous winning combination has been interrupted by the loss of five of the last 10 games. As long as Comorosky continues to play like the Comorosky of 1930 he belongs in the regular lineup. If he doesn't keep it up, Gibby can change back again.

WHEN THE CARDINAL management sent Pitcher Benny Frey back to Cincinnati after getting him from that club in the Hafey deal, it was charged that the relations between the two clubs were entirely too close. Some hinted that the St. Louis people owned Cincinnati stock and were helping the Reds out.

But the deal has taken on a different complexion. It develops that Gabby Street found Frey couldn't throw a curve ball without severe pain. So he sold Benny back to the Reds for as much as he could get for him. For weeks Frey has not been able to pitch and is now recuperating from an operation that took a piece of bone out of his elbow.

THE REBUILDING OF the Giants for 1933 will be a big job. Plans now being mapped out call for the acquisition of at least two new infielders, another right-hand pitcher, a young catcher and an outfielder with a sock.

Manager Terry may try a radical change when Travis Jackson is able to play again. If Johnny Vergez doesn't keep up his improved work and Gilbert English fails to deliver, Jackson may be converted into a third baseman.

IT OFTEN HAPPENS that a player in the background has much to do with the success of a ball club. He may not be doing much himself on the field, but he's showing others how to go out and do it. In that respect, Zack Taylor, extra catcher, appears to have played an indirect part in putting the Cubs in the National League pennant fight this year. It has been explained that the remarkable improvement in the pitching of Lon Warneke, whose 14 victories have been the main factor in the making of the Bruins, is due to his having acquired control, which he lacked last season, but it has not been told how he managed to get it. There's where Taylor comes in.

Zack Taylor

MANAGER HORNSBY instructed Taylor to take Warneke in hand and find out what the trouble was with his control. Taylor discovered that Lon had everything but a follow-through. His head dropped after he let the ball go.

Zack told the youngster he'd have to keep his head up after he pitched. He worked with him day after day until Warneke did. There were times in the heat of a game when Lon lapsed into his old habit, but a shout from Taylor put him back on the right track. Now he never forgets, and the correction of his fault has made him the outstanding young pitcher of the year.

JUST TO SHOW the extent to which he thinks he has the Comanche sign on his former Cardinal mates, Flint Rhem says that when he beat them last week for the Phils' first victory in St. Louis in two years, he didn't throw a curve ball after the fifth inning.

Even if he had wanted to, his hand was so wet with perspiration that he couldn't grip the ball to throw hooks. "But it wasn't necessary," he chuckled. "I could beat them left-handed. I know just where to throw to every hitter on that club so that they wouldn't get two good fouls off me if the game were close."

THE STRENGTH AND staying powers shown by Morton L. Schwartz's great horse Gusto in winning the American Derby and the Arlington Classic were all the more surprising because as a yearling and a 2-year-old this same colt was so weak and delicate that the owner and Trainer Max Hirsch were on the point of sending him back to the farm. Finally he was left at Belmont Park, where Hirsch nursed him along and developed him so successfully that by last fall Gusto was a big, strong, rugged young racehorse. He went to the post several times in 1931, but only once did he come home a winner.

SCHWARTZ AND HIRSCH were convinced this year that Gusto would fool a lot of racegoers who considered him a plater if they could find a jockey the horse would like. A month ago, Hirsch saw Silvio Coucci riding at Belmont Park and decided he was the boy Gusto needed.

So Max borrowed Coucci from Bill Brennan, trainer for Mrs. Payne Whitney, who has a contract on the lad. How well Hirsch guessed is now history. Though Coucci is only 17 years old and an apprentice boy, Hirsch expresses the opinion that he is superior to Sande, Fator, Walls or any of the other recognized stars of the saddle.

POP WARNER does not plan to have any mercy on his former pupil, Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, when he brings his Stanford Indians to the Pitt Stadium to play the Panthers on November 26. This information comes from Jim MacMurdo, former Pitt track and football star, who was talking with Warner during his recent visit to the Pacific Coast.

Jim MacMurdo

Pop met Jim during the I. C. 4-A. meet at Berkeley and asked if he would be playing football for Pitt again next fall. MacMurdo said he would not, and when Warner expressed his gratification, Jim hastened to assure him that were he to play the coming season he would just be keeping a better man on the bench.

POP TOOK THIS to mean that Sutherland will have another fine line this fall, and said: "Well, you'll probably stop us—if you can ever see the ball." All of which indicates that Pittsburgh is going to get a glimpse of the famous Warner hocus-pocus, developed to a greater degree than ever. Incidentally, MacMurdo is the new Pitt and district record-holder for the 16-pound shot put. He beat all previous local marks by putting the ball 46 feet 8½ inches in the trials of the I. C 4-A. meet. The previous Panther and district record was 46 feet, 6 inches, held by Gibby Welch. This makes two new Pitt marks set up this year, Woody Harris having turned in a 21-second performance in the 220-yard dash at State College early in May to beat Ken Wibecan's record of 21.1 seconds, set in 1928.

BULLETIN.

SHAWNEE PARK, LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 21.—(AP.)—Charles Ferrara, of San Francisco, defending champion, won a playoff and squeezed into the first round of the national public links tournament here today. Ferrara defeated two St. Paul players, Joe Coria and Al Priebe, after two holes this morning.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 21.—(AP.)—Louisville's four-man team won the Harding Cup in the qualifying round of national public links tournament here yesterday, and medalist honors went to a California schoolboy, Joe Nichols, who was runner-up last year to Charles Ferrara.

Nichols was cool and methodical in his play again this year and showed in the 36-hole qualifying round he has improved his game since 1931. The 16-year-old Long Beach player added 74 to his 71 of Tuesday and was the only one among the leaders who stayed on his game.

Andy Szwedka, of Pittsburgh, was the lone member of the Smoky City squad, which boasted the presence in its lineup of Carl Kauffmann, three times national champion, to qualify for the match play.

Kauffmann took a 157, Francis Lally had 167, John Pasikowski a 161, Dr. C. S. Brandom 168 and A. Betts 177.

FOUR IN TIE

Behind Nichols' low 145 were four playing with 146, Ray E. Wiggins, of Oakland, Cal.; Donald O'Bryan, of Louisville; William Jelliffe, of Los Angeles, whose 36 years make him one of the oldest contenders, and Ralph Strafaci, Brooklyn school boy.

William A. Heinlein, Indianapolis, and Talbot Boyer, Portland, Ore., and Pete Miller, Chicago, had 147. Then came four with 149, R. L. Miller, Jacksonville, Fla.; Ervin Schaber, Louisville; Karl Karch, Brooklyn, and Irving Goodard, Los Angeles.

Other qualifiers included five with 150 each, Edward Donohoe, St. Louis; Horace Lacey, Little Rock, Ark.; Melvin Carpenter, Columbus, O.; Oliver C. Sleppy, Long Beach, Cal., and Hank Foley, Chicago.

SZWEDKA TAKES 151

Eight got in with 151, Vernon Letzler, Akron, O.; Al Campbell, Seattle; Ray E. Jones, Richmond, Ind.; Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind.; Andrew Szwedka, Pittsburgh; Joe Merola, New York; Ade Fordham, St. Paul, Minn., and Bradley H. Burrows, Washington.

Five qualified with 152, Mike Parco, Buffalo, N. Y.; Curtis Bryan, Jacksonville, Fla.; Byron Hunt, Columbus, O.; Albert Wilkins, Brooklyn, and Gus Fetz, Chicago.

Five players, including Ferrara, San Francisco, defending champion, each with 153, had to go into a play-off for the remaining two places.

Teams and scores in the Harding Cup contest follow:

Louisville, 606; Chicago, 607; Indianapolis 614; Brooklyn, 618; St. Paul, Minn., 619; Jacksonville, Fla., 620; Philadelphia, 622; Columbus, O., and Portland, Ore., 623 each; San Francisco, 626; Detroit and Santa Monica, Cal., 631 each; Buffalo, N. EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE GIANT OF NOVA SCOTIA—Angus McAskill was a native of the Island of Lewis, Hebrides, Great Britain, where he was born in 1825. He had nine normal brothers and three sisters. He came to Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, when a child of 6. Upon attaining his full growth, he was 7 feet 9 inches tall, 3 feet 8 inches across the shoulders, while his chest measurement was 6 feet 8 inches, and his weight more than 500 pounds. Exhibited in America and in Europe as the "Cape Breton Giant," he became famous for great feats of strength. While in the United States he is said to have caught, lifted and carried on his shoulders a ship anchor weighing 2,700 pounds. THE DECOCTION OF COFFEE—In pharmacy "percolation" is defined as "the process of obtaining an extract by passing successive quantities of a dissolving liquid through a pulverized substance until all soluble matter is extracted." The process commonly described as "percolating coffee" has been misnamed. The liquid preparation made by boiling so as to extract the soluble parts of a substance is more properly named a decoction. The latter description applies to coffee prepared in a so-called percolator.

TENORIO BOXES TED YAROSZ

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Ted Yarosz, undefeated welterweight boxer, of Monaca, headlines another card of bouts at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

Ted Yarosz

His opponent will be Lope Tenorio, Filipino veteran, who once was a lightweight threat, having boxed Jimmy McLarnin, Ray Miller, Joe Glick, Bruce Flowers, King Tut, Stanislaus Loayza and others. He was born in the Philippines, but does his fighting out of New York.

If Yarosz is in anything like the punching form he showed his last time out, when he handed Johnny Hayes, rugged Philadelphian, the first knockout defeat of the latter's career, he is liable to add another knockout victim to his string tonight. Hayes came back following his defeat to stop Marty Gornick at the Meyers Bowl last Monday night.

Jacquette Elverillo, Porto Rico Negro welterweight, makes his local debut against Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the six-round semi-final. Jimmy Gilligan and Andy Kosel are in the second bout, and General Burrows boxes Packy McFarland in the opener, set for 8:45 o'clock. The canceling of the show scheduled at Greenlee Field last night is expected to help the gate tonight.

Between Rounds

Steve Hamas and Lee Ramage box a return bout at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, next Monday night. Ramage won the decision in their first fight.

Joe Choynski, former boxing instructor at the P. A. A., and well-known heavyweight performer in the days of Jeffries, Johnson, Fitzsimmons, Corbett, et. al., now is physical instructor at the Cincinnati Gym and Athletic Club.

Johnny Cataline, featherweight, now residing here, returns to his old home town, Charleston, W. Va., tonight to box Frankie Erne in a 10-round main bout.

Al Becker, of Sheraden, is ready to box again, scaling around 152 pounds. Irish Kane is handling him.

The Meyers Bowl will be closed down again next Monday night and Greenlee Field has been awarded that date for its next show. An attempt is being made to sign Archie Bell, of New York, to box Mose Butch in the main bout.

Wife's Manicure Scissors Boon To Reynolds

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—Carl Reynolds, outfielder for the Washington Nationals, has his wife to thank for saving him from an embarrassing and threatening situation.

Since July 4 Reynolds' upper and lower teeth have been wired together to hasten the knitting of his jawbone, cracked when he was slugged by Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher, in a now historic encounter.

Riding in a cab with his wife, Reynolds became ill and choked. Stopping the cab under a street light, Mrs. Reynolds quickly cut the restricting wires with a pair of manicure scissors—and Carl could breathe again.

BUFFALINO OUT OF TRIALS

By JACK HANLEY
International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Twenty battle-scarred amateur boxing stars from South, North, East and West of the United States wore the smile of first round victory today, and were ready to go into battle again tonight, and possibly the finals, Saturday night, of the American Olympic boxing team tryout finals here. The tournament is being staged under the auspices of the San Francisco Examiner, a Hearst newspaper.

Three championship crowns toppled last night.

Richard Carter, National A. A. U. featherweight cahmpion, of New York, was one of the dethroned kings. He lost a decison to Holman Williams, of Detroit.

A bitterly-fought three-round battle resulted in the dethroning of A. B. Wertheimer, National Intercollegiate featherweight champion, of Syracuse, by Fred Lynch, of Portland, Ore. Joe Moran, of Syracuse, middleweight, was decisioned by Jack Oxsen, of San Francisco.

DEMPSEY STOPS BOUT

Ray Bohannan, Annapolis, defeated Dennis Flynn, Loyola University, New Orleans. Bohannan floored Flynn three times before Jack Dempsey, who acted as one of the referees, stopped the fight in the second round.

Homer Brandis, of the San Francisco Olympic Club, National A. A. U. light-heavyweight champion, launched his battle for a berth on the team with a technical third round knockout over Anthony Balash, Syracuse University.

KLEIN SMACKS TWO HOMERS; PHILS WIN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirates this morning were hopeful that Chuck Klein, Philly slugger, had recovered from the sick spell which gripped him previous to yesterday's clash in the Oakland Orchard. In the event that Chuckerino has regained his health, the first-placers figure they have an excellent chance to win the last clash of the five-game series which is on the books for today. The Phearless Phils have copped three of the four games played.

Chuck Klein

Thirty minutes previous to the start of the battle of yesterday, Chuck sat in one of Jack Fogarty's wheel-barrows in the shaded runway, his head in his hands. Your correspondent asked about his trouble and Klein replied with considerable feeling:

BUTTERMILK DIET

"Am I sick? That hot doubleheader yesterday knocked me for a row. I was up all night, and I can't get a thing to stay on my stomach except buttermilk. I hate to miss a ball game, but I don't see how I can go this afternoon. I reckon I'll have to stay out for a day, anyhow."

I felt like advising Chuck to stay out of the remainder of the series and was secretly hoping Chuck would be on a buttermilk diet when the Pirates reach Philadelphia; but when the battle got underway, there was Chuck with his favorite bat, even though he did appear downcast.

Well, the Hoosier boy is a pretty fair country ball player and when that buttermilk started to work, it began to churn up plenty of trouble for George Gibson and his league leaders. Chuck warmed up on a measley triple to left and then walloped his twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth homers into the rightfield stands as the Quakers won 6 to 2.

So if Klein is back to normal health, Frenchy Kremer may be able to subdue the Quakers in the finale today. Burt Shotton is playing a rather scurvy trick on the Pittsburghers by sending Southpaw Jim Elliott back on two days' rest, but maybe our boys will have the proper sort of welcome for James.

HOLLEY IN FORM

A big lad from Kansas City named Edgar Holley let the Buccos down with five hits in yesterday's clash. Holley is a sidearm twirler, who, like Bill Swift, also a Kansas City graduate, knows how to work the corners. Tony Piet and Paul Waner were the only Pirates able to cope with the big rookie.

Heine Meine and Holley staked a hot dual through five innings. In the sixth the Quakers won the battle by launching a three-run drive. Klein's homer came later to bolster the enemy lead. Fortunately for the Freebooters the Cubs bowed to the Giants and the leaders held to their two-game advantage.

Capt. Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner will return to the Pirate lineup and Adam Comorosky will be assigned to leftfield when the Pirates take on the Cubs tomorrow in the first battle of a two-game series at Forbes Field. Outfielder Dave Barbee, who has played good ball for the Pirates in their drive to the top, will be held in reserve.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The big squabble right now is for runner-up in the American League. The A's, Washington, Detroit and Cleveland are doing more fighting for second place on the ticket than Dolly Gann. And second place is just as worth having in baseball as national politics, because if the Yanks should get shot or drop dead, you step right into the gravy boat.

Nick Altrock

Speaking of politics, what's the matter with this 1932 campaign? With both party platforms going wild over beer, Hoover and Roosevelt are quarreling over the St. Lawrence River. So far as Uncle Nick's concerned, they can forget about water power and concentrate on more kick in beer.

UPSETS MARK WEST PENN JUNIOR GOLF MATCH PLAY

MEDALIST, JIM MARKS, JR., DEFEATED

By TOM BIRKS

R. H. Friday, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, who won medalist honors yesterday with 154 for 36 holes, was eliminated, and the possibility of a "brother act" in the final was blasted with the defeat of Jim Marks, Jr., of Kiski, as upset followed upset with the playing of the first round of match play in the annual Western Pennsylvania junior golf championship tournament at the South Hills Country Club today.

FFriday, far below the fine form he displayed yesterday when he put together rounds of 79 and 75, was eased out of the title picture by S. Hulse, of Bedford, 2 and 1.

Jim Marks, Jr., was eliminated by R. B. Parker, of Highland, 1 up, in a thrilling match, which produced some of the most brilliant golf ever witnessed ina local junior competition. With his putter functioning like a magic wand, Parker got down in one putt on eight greens and turned in a medal score of 73—the best of the tourney, and only two strokes above South Hills' difficult par.

MARKS' RALLY VAIN

Marks, with a medal score of 74 for the 18 holes, was 2 down at the turn and 3 down after 11 holes. He finished gamely and brilliantly, but Parker stuck close to par as he made his lead last until the finish. The cards:

Parker—
Out... 4 5 5 3 3 4 3 4 5—36
In.... 5 3 3 5 4 3 3 4 5—37—73

Marks—
Out... 5 6 4 3 3 4 4 4 5—38
In.... 5 4 3 4 3 4 4 4 5—36—74

Wilson (Billy) Marks, although playing slightly less brilliantly than his brother, remained in the competition by defeating I. S. Ball, of Uniontown, 5 and 3. Claude McKee and Billy Jens served notice that the home club entranis merit plenty of title consideration by winning by 7-and-6 and 4-and-2 scores, respectively.

Al Curry, Montour Heights, gained the title fight without participating in a play-off for the last berth when Joe Boyle, Beaver Valley, defaulted.

Another tie resulted for low net prize, Dr. C. H. Henninger and R. E. Brown, both of Stanton Heights, turned in cards of 66.

JUNIOR, BOYS' NET FINALS ON TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Final contests of the annual Western Pennsylvania Junior and Boys' tennis championships top today's racquet card which includes also the windups of postponed P. T. A. Inter-Club League frays between Edgewood and Shannopin Country Club and between Edgewood Seconds and Washington Heights. The uncompleted tussles of the University Club-Mount Lebanon engagement will be reeled off tomorrow evening.

Two Mount Lebanon High School lads, Ralph Bald and Bob Grier, will battle for the West Penn Junior crown, with Lawrence Blatt and Bob Madden clashing for honors in the boys division. The program gets under way with the boys' windup at 2 o'clock, the junior affair following immediately.

BALD TRIMS BROTHER

Bald, last year's West Penn boys' victor, cared for his brother, John, 6-3, 8-6; for his schoolmate, Harold Hatch, 6-3, 6-3, and for the clever Wilkinsburger, Bob Burnett, 7-5, 6-1, to enter the trophy bracket yesterday. Grier, diminutive southpaw walloper, spilled Harold Mathieson, twice winner of Pittsburgh Center boys' laurels, 6-4, 6-1, in the quarter-finals and returned to edge out Madden, who was entered in both classifications of the tourney, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, in the semi-finals.

Eddie Carson, Greensburg youngster and third seeded entry, defaulted to Madden in the quarter-final frame of the boys' event. In the penultimate canto, Madden trimmed Bob, third of the Balds, 6-3, 6-1, while Blatt defeated Jerry Goodman, 6-8, 6-0, 6-2.

Survivors of the ordeals will be rendered eligible to joust in the Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' championships at the P. A. A. next week. The summary:

JUNIOR SINGLES

Third round, lower half—Nicholas Mackov defeated Robert Engel, 6-3, 6-4; Harold Hatch defeated Robert Heltz, 6-3, 6-3; Ralph Bald defeated John Bald, 6-3, 8-6.

Fourth round, upper half—Robert Madden defeated James Magaw, 6-4, 6-4; Robert Grier defeated Harold J. Mathieson, Jr., 6-4, 6-1.

Lower half—Robert Burnett defeated Nicholas Mackov, 6-1, 6-2; Ralph Bald defeated Harold Hatch, 6-3, 6-3.

Semi-final round—Robert Grier defeated Robert Madden, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2; Ralph Bald defeated Robert Burnett, 7-5, 6-1.

BOYS' SINGLES

Third round—Robert Maddem won from Edgar Carson, by default.

Semi-final round—Robert Madden defeated Robert Bald, 6-3, 6-1; Lawrence Blatt defeated Jerry Goodman, 6-8, 6-0, 6-2.

EXHIBITIONS CARDED

Pittsburgh Tennis Association performers will engage in match and exhibition play aplenty between now and end of the week, Bridgeville, Washington and Johnstown grace the P. T. A. missionary card of the next few days.

Frank Smith, Edgewood captain, opens festivities this evening by leading Leonard Reed, Andy Smeaton and Dr. Chick Cochran, of the Suburbanites, to Bridgeville for special series of tussles under supervision of Maurice Saperstein. Singles feature brings together Smith and Reed. Later this duo will team in doubles against Smeaton and Cochran.

Sunday, Smith and Reed, together with John Brown and Ed Alcorn, Mt. Lebanon pair, jaunt to Washington to encounter Bill Thompson, Ron Naser and company, while the famed O'Loughlin trio—John, Dave and Billy—trek back to their native Westmont haunts in company with Paul Barber, of University Club, and Paul Sullivan, of the P. A. A.

Pittsburgh delegations, if present negotiations carry through, will likewise travel to New Castle, Oil City, Latrobe, Cleveland, Connellsville and Uniontown before the windup of the campaign.

Guy June Again Sets Trot Record

Guy June, crack locally owned trotter, crashed its own mile record for the Schenley Oval track yesterday when it covered the distance in 2:06. The old mark, set a week ago, was 2:06¾. It was the fastest mile to be trotted over a half-mile track in the country this year.

Two straight and two split-heat victories featured the regular program of harness events. Neffco Boy and Victor King scored in straights and Allan Jr. and Sally Allan won split verdicts.

STOCK MARKET HESITANT, QUIET

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—The stock market faced forward today, but faltered at the hurdle of the upper resistance level of the July trading range.

The list was extremely quiet, and seemed more inclined to work higher than otherwise. Traders generally, however, were inclined to mark time, pending indications as to whether the list was again turned back at the level at which last week's rally was checked.

Most of the leading industrials fluctuated in a narrow fractional range, but some of the food shares, rails and specialties worked higher. Issues advancing about 1 to 2 points included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, Delaware and Hudson, Loose Wiles, Beechnut, Loew's, Grand Union, McIntyre Porcupine, Brooklyn Union Gas and Freeport Texas. The list eased off for a time in the morning, but fractional recessions in such issues as American Can, American Telephone and Air Reduction were recovered. National Biscuit, Texas Gulf Sulphur and United States Steel common and preferred showed fractional gains. McKeesport turned over in some volume, coincident with publication of its earnings, but the stock was barely changed.

The second quarter and first half earnings statements, about which there have been forebodings, began to appear in some volume, and, on the whole, the exhibit to date seems somewhat better than anticiptaed, at least no worse. Buying of some issues such as Loew's, Beechnut and Loose-Wiles appeared to be prompted by analysis of their records. The bearishly inclined are harping on the fact that third quarter earnings are likely to make even a worse showing than the second quarter, but the more cheerfully inclined observers point out that there should be some autumn recovery before those reports must be digested.

McIntyre Porcupine, reflecting the traditional ability of gold mining to prosper in bad times, reported net of 70 cents a share in the second quarter, as increased from 51 cents in the like period of last year. Canadian producers have been helped somewhat by the premium on gold in the Dominion, as result of the sag in the Canadian dollar below its gold parity. The report of Loew's for the 40 weeks ended June 3, showing net of $4.37 a share, only moderately reduced from $6.04 in the like period of last year, attracted attention, in view of the drastic slump in motion picture earnings generally.

In the foods, both Loose Wiles and National Biscuit earned $1.21 a share in the first half, but the former was a reduction from $1.70 in the like period of last year, while Biscuit's was reduced from $1.36. Beechnut reported $2.15 for the first half, not far from the $2.63 reported at this time last year. McKeesport Tin Plate earned $2.23 a share in the first half, little more than half the $4.23 of the like period of 1931. Gulf States Steel's June quarter deficit was $215,456, a reduction from the loss of $303,543 in same period of 1931.

Japan Offerings Depress Copper

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Pressure of further Japanese offerings forced copper to a new low level at 4.50 cents a pound in the export market, according to reports in copper circles today. Some small independent producers aboard are reported quoting 4.60 cents with Copper Exporters, Inc., at 4.70 cents.

The domestic market has not thus far reflected this weakness abroad, being comparatively steady at 5¼ cents. Sales are small, both here and in the foreign market.

Big Government Offerings Likely to Be Made Over Month-End

Though investment circles are by no means certain of their calculations, consensus seems to be that the Treasury will be in the market for somewhere between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000 over the month-end. Provision must be made for a maturity of $228,000,000, and in addition for the government deficit estimated running about $225,000,000 a month. Along with this it is believed funds will be sought to cover the $300,000,000 advances to states provided for in the relief bill. It is expected one and two-year or one and three-year maturities will be fixed for a good part of the anticipated issues, with some volume of short-term paper included.

Opinion in Wall Street on the possibility of a change in the New York bank rate late today is a bit more divided than it had been of late. Moderate strength in federal bonds was due in part to covering influenced by such consideration, but it was intimated also that the reserve was a little more active on the buying side. Some of those who could not find basis for expecting a cut in the bank rate recently are less positive on that score at the moment. It is pointed out that a lower official money rate might help facilitate the large scale refunding and borrowing operations which the Treasury must undertake on August 1.

Northwestern rail shares have been inclined to do a little better marketwise of late reflecting the improved crop outlook in that region compared with last year. F. W. Sargent, head of the Chicago and Northwestern, citing the fact that the "Northwest through good crops has pulled the country out of two depressions" calls attention to the excellent condition of corn, and contends that "if the farmers get anywhere near decent prices for the crops the depression is broken in Northwest." The head of Union Pacific finds his situation unchanged, with the winter wheat crop in Kansas and Nebraska short, and the corn crop "in the lap of the gods."

The trend of scrap steel has long been recognized as one of the best barometers of prospective conditions in the steel industry. Consequently the several large transactions reported of late have aroused a good deal of interest. The disposition at the moment, however, seems to be to wait a bit longer before attaching too much significance to this flurry of demand. It remains to be seen whether the steel industry is buying to prepare for expected fall improvement, or just taking advantage of the opportunity to procure high grade scrap at unusually attractive prices.

Prospects are that a co-operative growers' agreement will have been completed and given specific assent by the six leading Hawaiian pineapple producing interests within the next 48 hours.

This agreement has the support of the packers and also of the banking interests which have been lending help with the heavy carryovers of the last two years. When completed, the co-operative arangement will cover not only this year's crop, but that of next year and subsequent plantings. The fundamental objective in the whole plan is to re-establish the pineapple business upon a basis which will eliminate the great surplus that has been created and has been aggravated by depression conditions retarding distribution.

Extent of the depreciation in common stocks in the last three years is graphically portrayed in a comparison of current prices with 1929 market quotations for subscription rights compiled by Frazier Jelke & Co. This compilation shows that in many cases the 1929 cost of nothing more than the right to subscribe to a share of new stock exceeded present market value of the shares. In other words, stocks have declined to a level at which they may be said to represent permanent options on business recovery. The cost of subscribing at $55 a share to new stock in Anaconda Copper in 1929, for instance, was $43.75, while the stock itself may be purchased now for $4. Baltimore & Ohio rights cost $12.50 then and the stock now commands only $6. Rights to subscribe to Eastman Kodak at $150 a share brought $48.75, but the stock itself now may be had for $37.50. Similar comparisons are found in many others.

BETTER BANK MANAGEMENT SEEN NEED

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, July 21.—The chairman of the statewide committee for Mississippi, co-operating with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in passing on loan applications, R. E. Kennington, outstanding merchant and bank chairman at Jackson, Miss., told me that he thought the corporation, in extending the helping hand of relief, should insist on better banking management.

Mr. Rukeyser

Specifically, he proposed that such quasi - governmental relief to needy moneylenders should be employed as a lever to accelerate bank consolidations in over - banked communities. He said that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, by suggesting structural changes as conditions for continued lending support, could help to reduce the abuses which have impaired the status of weaker banks.

Mr. Kennington's arresting plan meets the criticism that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans interfere with the corrective workings of economic law. Usually financial troubles necessitate a reorganization and a change of management. Averting receiverships, however, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation permits weak management to stay in power, and endows the fight of excessive bank units to continue destructively to compete among themselves.

As for banking policy, Mr. Kennington, judging by the record in his own state, believes that the corporation errs in being too strict, rather than in being too free and easy. He thinks that it weakens the credit structure of the country to require too much collateral from borrowing banks, leaving the borrowers without security to put up later for additional loans which may be required.

Favoring a bold lending policy, Mr. Kennington would in effect like to tell satisfactorily conducted banks, reorganized in accordance with his plan, that the corporation will stand behind them and see them through the emergency.

Mr. Kinnington, with inside knowledge of loans made in his state, expressed the opinion that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would show no net loss, but a profit. He indicated, however, that it might take a decade to wind up the operation.

Inasmuch as the government has been getting funds for the corporation on its own short term paper at extremely low interest rates and since the corporation has been lending the funds at a substantially higher interest rate around 5½ per cent—Mr. Kennington expressed confidence that the government ultimately would make a sizeable profit on the relief operation.

Of course, the test will come in the character of the loans and the timing of general economic recovery, which would thaw out situations now badly frozen and would validate assets now impaired.

Jennie, Anxious to Avoid Old Admirer, Asks Lynn To Assist Her

CHAPTER XXXVII.

"We're going riding," Dwight said, "where's that know? On the Island. Go upstairs and see what Santa brought you."

Lynn ran up the stairs under the friendly eyes of the man Wilkins. In the bedroom she found a suitcase, fitted, stamped with her initials; and in the suitcase a winter sports outfit, stockings, sweater, scarf, beret, chamois coat, amusing trousers, gloves.

"Oh!" her voice floated down to him.

Wilkins put his head around the door. "Carry it for you, miss?"

She went downstairs, laughing. "Commander Byrd," she hailed him, and smiled. "Shall I put them on now?"

"It's not antarctic, but it's something of an expedition," he warned her. "No, wait till we get there."

Presently, the suitcase and one of his were put in the car. They drove out of town swiftly through the twilight. It was a white Christmas. Lighted trees shone from the windows of apartments and houses and from church yards.

"It's beautiful," said Lynn, listening to the chimes.

They had left the town behind them. There was little traffic and Dwight drove fast. Beyond Great Neck he turned into a long, snow-rutted lane.

Trees laden with snow, frosty, gleaming, bordered it on either side. A turn, and there was a house waiting, a house from an old-fashioned Christmas card. Every window was lighted; they wore wreaths of holly; there were two lighted trees outside. As Lynn got out of the car she heard voices, laughter.

"But where—who—"

"Friends of mine. You'll like them. Lulu and Mike Hayward."

RETURNS LATE

She did like them. Their hostess, a fat woman, had the skin of a child, the wide blue eyes of a child. The host, her husband, was lean, bronzed. There were other people, all in sports clothes. The Carters.

Yule log, punch, a bedroom to change in, the toboggan on the hill, the first wild essay with skis. Lynn's feet helplessly slipping from under her, Dwight, laughing, picking her out of a snow bank. And at midnight, supper, dancing . . .

At nearly 3 o'clock in the morning they turned out of the Haywards' drive and spun through the quiet of the waning night. It was light when he left her at her own door.

"Tired?"

"No."

"Happy Christmas?" he asked her.

"Awfully."

She smiled up at him. He took the sprig of mistletoe from his buttonhole and held it over her head; he kissed her under the startled eyes of a lone and cold policeman. Not with a light kiss—that other kiss. She drew back afraid. Not repulsed, but afraid. Not afraid of him but of her loneliness, of her youth, her warm blood, her awakened senses.

"My Christmas present," he said, and drove away.

FACES FACTS SQUARELY

Trembling, she went into the house. She thought, I ought not to see him again. Jennie was right about its being dangerous. But why? she argued. I like him a lot. I admire him but I don't really care for him. It's Tom, always Tom, only——

Only what. Only that she was unhappy, that she was lonely, that she had become accustomed to the caress of love.

"I won't see him again," she decided.

But she did.

Seeing him was a perilous pleasure. Impossible not to realize that he was attracted by her; more than attracted by her. Where would it lead? she wondered. She knew that it would lead wherever she wanted it to lead.

He was married; and had, so far as she knew, every intention of remaining married. She faced that squarely enough. She was aware of his reputation; Jennie had enlightened her—and Tom, Tom.

Tom was no longer in the picture. He'd gone; he wouldn't come back. What was there left for her? Years of work, of climbing the ladder, of reaching Sarah's place sometime? Not alone her position, but her place in the scheme of things. An apartment, perhaps, with another woman. Being busy in a trivial way; trying always to believe she wasn't lonely.

AFRAID OF LONELINESS

There might be another man some time. Someone young and gay like Tom; someone she'd love a lot.

But there might not be. There hadn't been anyone for Sarah, for a hundred others she had met. They'd passed love by or love had passed them by. Was it worth while to keep on for the sake of a raise in salary, added responsibility?

Once, not long ago, she had thought it very worth while. But somehow the time spent with David Dwight had undermined that theory. Life with Dwight was—and would be—so simple. Luxury, admiration, something which might masquerade under the name of love. Oh, if he really cared for her, if he really wanted her—what would she do?

She was so afraid of loneliness. She knew now what it was like. Dwight might make her forget; might fool her into believing she would be happy making him happy. Dwight did care for her. Every word told her so, every glance, every small consideration for her comfort and her amusement. If he cared for her——?

Jennie had gone off at the deep end with a man she didn't love. But was, Lynn thought, content enough. Jennie hadn't thought that she was doing anything very dreadful. And was she? Lynn wondered. She had reached the stage where she was able to wonder; a stage in which black was no longer black nor white, white. And she liked David Dwight enormously.

PONDERS OVER ANSWER

She admitted that he attracted her. He was beginning to weave a slow, close spell over her senses. Oh, not love, not love, but all of love that many women—and men—ever knew. If he should ask her, what would she say?

She didn't know.

No one need know, if she said yes. No one need be hurt. No one but herself.

Tom would never know. If he did know, she thought with the impulse of a child to strike, to wound, he'd be sorry.

Tom's fault.

She looked back over the stormy career of their love; tears and laughter; quarrels and kisses; passion aroused and denied; love and hate and rebellion; happiness and unhappiness, all mixed up, turbulent, chaotic.

If Dwight wanted her——?

All the storm, the stress would be on his side, she told herself frankly. On hers? Oh, comfort, ease, no great demand on her emotions. Things must be more comfortable that way, mustn't they?

He had said nothing yet, but she knew the situation could not mark time much longer. Some day he'd speak. What would he say? What would she answer?

Jennie solved that question for her.

JENNIE TROUBLED

One morning in January the telephone on Lynn's desk shrilled loudly. She answered, astonished to hear Jennie's voice, broken, roughened with anxiety, "Lynn, can you come up here to see me—quick? It's awfully important."

Lynn looked at her watch. It was after eleven. "I'll take my lunch an hour early. What's wrong, Jennie? Are you ill?"

"No. Oh, step on it!" cried Jennie, the self-reliant.

Lynn went into Sarah's office. "If I'm late getting back from lunch, will it be all right?" she asked. "It's Jennie. She's in trouble of some sort."

"That's to be expected," Sarah told her tartly; then, softening, "Of course it's all right, Lynn."

She smiled, with a little effort. She had not seen much of Lynn lately. Even without proof, it was impossible not to conjecture with whom she had been spending much of her free time.

She thought, I must speak to her, warn her. But could she?

She was torn between her loyalty to Lynn and her illogical loyalty to David Dwight. She was frightened. She was miserable. And she was aging under it.

An oversophisticated mulatto admitted Lynn to Jennie's apartment. Jennie was walking around the living room, half dressed. Her face was gray-white; her eyes had dark circles beneath them. For the first time Lynn saw her face bare of make-up, the lips pale and dry. That startled her.

"What's happened?" asked Lynn.

ASKS LYNN'S AID

At the sound of her voice Jennie pulled herself together. "Plenty," she replied briefly. Lynn cast a look at the vanishing back of the maid. "It doesn't matter," Jennie told her wanly. "She'll listen at the door; anyway, she knows enough as it is."

"Tell me. Heavens, Jennie, you look awful!"

"I feel worse. It's Slim. Oh, I was a fool. It was easy, when—when I didn't know as much as I do now. But since—since Jake, it was different somehow. I was bored, too, fed up, couldn't call my soul my own. Lonely. And Slim hung around. Last night he came here. Not the first time—the third.

"Don't look at me like that, Lynn! I can't help it. I couldn't help it! Anyway, Jake showed up. I don't know if he just took it into his head to come on or whether someone had tipped him off. That girl's in his pay, I suppose. Or was. I pay her plenty more now.

"Well, the night elevator man tipped me off. Held him down there, while I got Slim out by the freight elevator. It was—pretty bad. If it hadn't been for that night man..."

"But what do you want me to do?" asked Lynn, helplessly.

"See Slim. Tell him to stay away," Jennie begged.

"See Slim," Jennie besought her. "Tell him to keep away. I don't care about myself. I can go back to living on my salary. Tell him I'm going to Evanston. Jake said last night he wanted me to come and live—nearer. I said I would."

"Jennie, don't! Let him go; live on your salary. There'll be Slim; you'll be happy.

"Not me. Slim's sick at himself already. I'm sick of myself, too. He—he wouldn't marry me now, you know. He's funny that way. Old-fashioned." Jennie told her with a futile attempt at wise-cracking, and laughed. "Lynn, please see him. Tell him I'm going away; tell him I never want to see him again."

"Jennie, don't you care for him at all?"

Jennie looked at her friend. Her eyes were a little mad. "Lynn, get wise to yourself. Of course I care. If I didn't, I'd stay on and two-time pay roll. Or give him the air and become a working girl again—with a sweetie. But it can't be, don't you see that? I'd just drag Slim down. I've done it already. What a fool I've been!" she said bitterly. "You'll see him? I count on you. I'm pulling out of here as soon as I can get packed. Jake will stand for the broken lease. He'll be good to me."

Is a chorus girl's private life her own business? This is the background of "Blondie of the Follies," the new serial story starting in the Sun-Telegraph next Monday. Francis Marion is the author of the story and there is a thrill in every chapter. When you travel with "Blondie" you go places with this queen of Broadway and New York life. But hidden from the pleasure-mad, fair-weather admirers is the intensely human, heart-gripping drama of "Blondie's" private life—an amazing story that glorifies the soul of a glamorous show girl. This story is so good that it has been purchased by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as a starring vehicle for Marion Davies. Don't overlook the first instalment next Monday.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Ann Helfgott, "official junior reporter" of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, sent in the following items about the members:

Here's an industrious girl. Pauline Caplan has been spending her vacation at Peabody High School making cellophane belts for all her friends. I hope I'm one of them.

John Cleary, another live-wire club member, is seen every Saturday morning over in the corner with six or seven little boys. Curiosity got the best of us and we asked John why the meetings? "Some time ago I was in an automobile accident," said John, "and it taught me that you can't be too careful. So every week I tell a different group of children about my accident and warn them to be careful when out playing on the street." Good work, John, keep it up.

Fooled! Alvin Caplan, brother of the cellophane belt girl, diminutive in stature, is fully capable of giving a good account of himself in the more strenuous sports popular among the boys. He can run, jump and pull in a tug-o-war with any of the larger boys. He recently won the prize for endurance in one of the club contests against all comers.

Ruthie Miller, dancing instructor has about finished with the girls who are going to take part in the Enright Komic Club Frolic. Another week and Miss Miller will be ready to devote more time to the rest of the cast.

NEW MANOR MEMBERS

The following youngsters were made members of the Manor Chapter Saturday: Leonard Alpern, 6650 Beason street; Katherine Dice, 6510 Bartlett street; Stanley Dice, 6510 Bartlett street; Robert Harmening, 5037 Glenwood avenue; James Kelley, 778 Hazelwood avenue; Rhonda Kramer, 214 Winston street; Joseph O'Hanlon, 4316 Bigelow Blvd.; Harold Zilbertuler, 2023 Murray avenue.

The dancing school started by John Morin, Jr., manager of the Plaza Theater, is fast becoming a permanent fixture of this chapter. More and more children attend every week. The members were entertained by three acts from the school Saturday. The first hundred members at the theater Saturday received an ice cream sandwhich, so you see it pays to be on time.

WILKINSBURG MEETING

Miss Mildred Rotthoff, cashier at the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, had complete charge of the Komic Club meeting again Saturday. After the announcements Miss Rotthoff introduced little Betty Haskette, who acted as mistress of ceremonies. The first number on the program was a tap dance by Robert Finley, followed by Betty Haskette, who sang "Carolina Moon." Betty Leresche and May Hurst did a tap duet. The Junior Komic Club Orchestra, of the Rowland Chapter, then played several selections, which the members enjoyed. Birthday cakes were distributed to all those who celebrated birthdays last week.

Candidates are conserving energy by putting speeches on phonograph records. Radio stations then play the records, while the candidates sit at home and think.

That makes it nice. Instead of standing on records that are phony Congressmen can stand on records that are phonograph. (Laughter.)

The President Versus Congress

When Speaker Garner declares that the Seventy-second Congress, during its long session just ended, "did not accomplish much for the good of the country," he puts the whole truth in a few words.

Every unemployed American will bear witness that Congress did not accomplish much for the relief of the unemployed.

Every taxpaying American will bear witness that Congress did not accomplish much for the relief of the overburdened taxpayers.

Every racket-ridden community will bear witness that Congress did not accomplish much toward curbing the criminal organization with which prohibition has cursed the country.

By authorizing a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan to finance a national program of useful and much needed public works, Congress could have put millions of men to work and billions of dollars into immediate circulation.

This would have relieved unemployment and checked deflation.

By the adoption of an adequate sales tax, Congress could have reduced existing income taxes and released income to finance agriculture, commerce and labor, north, east, south and west.

This would have relieved the overburdened taxpayer, restored confidence, revived business, and provided ample revenue to run the government efficiently and, therefore, economically.

Congress could have modified the iniquitous Volstead law so as to permit the lawful sale of light wines and beer.

This would have revived industry, stimulated employment, added to the government's income, and gone far toward ending criminal racketeering, and restoring to every American citizen that personal liberty which the bill of rights was designed to protect.

Why did Congress at its long session just ended leave undone these things which it ought to have done?

Chiefly because Candidate Hoover was busily engaged in "playing politics" with human misery.

Mr. Hoover threatened to veto a prosperity loan for public works, and he did veto the Garner relief bill even after the public works program had been cut to almost nothing in the effort to satisfy him.

Mr. Hoover backed and hemmed and hawed and timidly teetered and hesitated about the sales tax until after the insurgents in the House had rejected it and the radicals in the Senate had gained control of the situation. If the President had supported the enlightened initiative of the House Committee on Ways and Means Congress would undoubtedly have adopted the sales tax, but the President was afraid that the Democratic Ways and Means Committee and the Democratic House would get some political prestige by passing the measure.

Mr. Hoover threatened to veto any modification of the iniquitous Volstead law, and threw the weight of his influence against any immediate relief from the organization of crime for which prohibition is to blame.

Congress could have accomplished much more for the good of the country than stands to its credit at the last session. But Congress could not have supplied that fearless and progressive leadership so conspicuous by its absence from the White House.

For, as Calvin Coolidge has truly said:

"Under the American system of government, there is no substitute for leadership in the presidency."

Action or Hunger?

Legislature Accomplishes Nothing Toward Providing Relief for Unemployed.

The Legislature has been in special session for four weeks. Up to the present time it has accomplished nothing toward providing relief for the unemployed. It is extremely unlikely that anything will be accomplished unless a true appreciation of the seriousness of the emergency facing the state is developed.

Political animosities appear to be more important to the men we send to Harrisburg than the fact that thousands of men, women and children are facing starvation. The Legislature has become so absorbed in its own petty squabbles that it has entirely forgotten the vital problems which it must solve.

Gov. Pinchot aptly summed up the situation when he said:

"It is evident that unless the people of Pennsylvania take a hand the result of this second extra session will be exactly like that of the first session, except that it will be worse. And it will not be Gifford Pinchot who will be double-crossed, but the unemployed, the widows, the orphans and the sick."

Canal Plans Affected

St. Lawrence Seaway Treaty, Senators Say, Would Forever Stop Lake Erie-Ohio River Project.

Intimation that Washington does not look altogether askance at the long-proposed Lake Erie-Ohio River canal is contained in comment on the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, the terms of which Senators claim would effectually prevent the construction of such a canal at any time. They assert it takes away from Congress the control of diversion of water from the Great Lakes for navigation purposes.

"The treaty," said Senator Brookheart, of Iowa, "has fixed the diversion of water in the Great Lakes system for navigation purposes at the same limit fixed by the Supreme Court for sanitary purposes. In other words, the treaty as drawn takes away from Congress all power of controlling diversion of water from the Great Lakes system for navigation.

"Congress would have no power to construct any other canal, from Lake Erie to the Ohio River, for instance, and divert lake water for its operation."

Local promoters of the waterway last mentioned by the Senator, will watch with interest the seaway ratification proceedings in the Senate, since they would not like to see their years of promotion work made impossible of accomplishment.

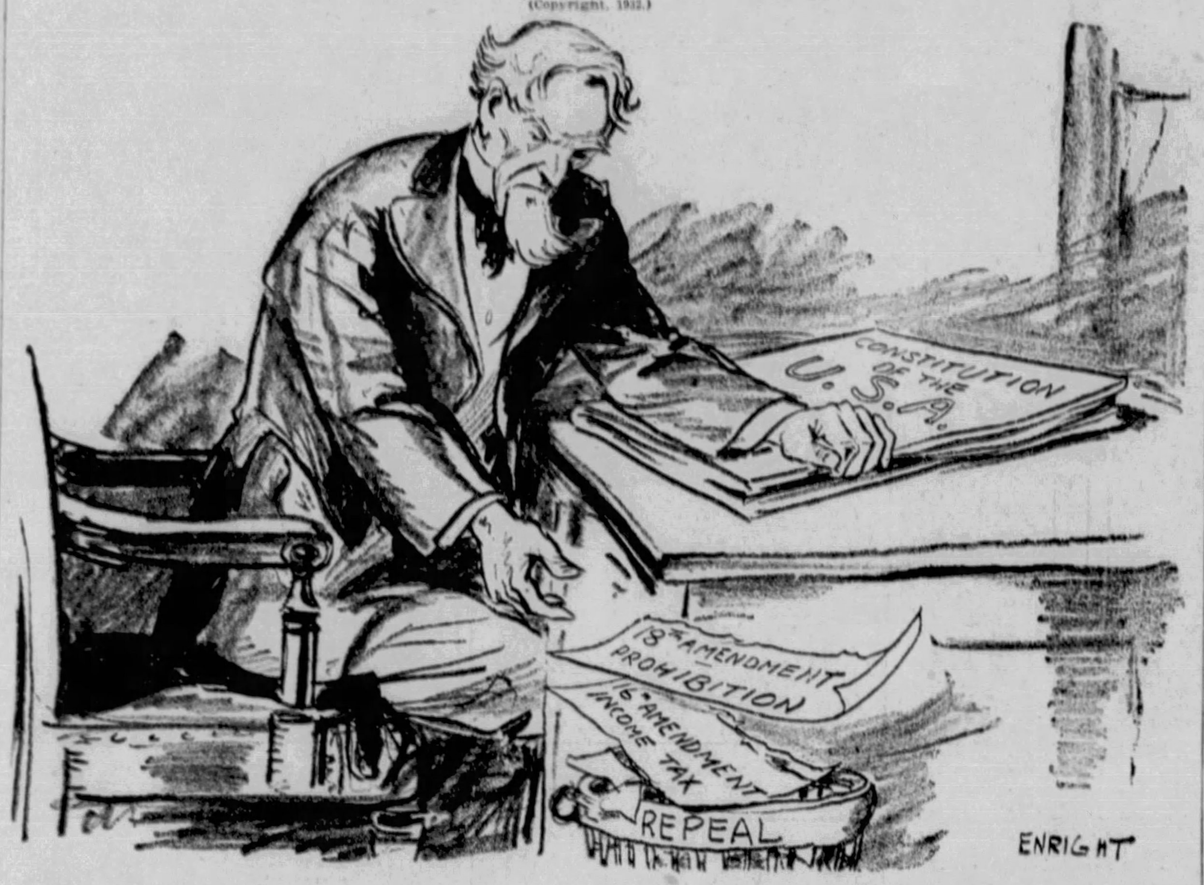
Where They Belong!

(Copyright, 1932.)



The Sixteenth Amendment (Income Tax) and the Eighteenth Amendment (Prohibition) should be put into the REPEAL wastebasket at the earliest possible opportunity if right and justice and equality are to prevail in this land.

The Income Tax is a failure in every respect. It does not yield its expected share of the cost of running the government. It is unjust, iniquitous, unfair to all classes, and especially burdensome to the creative classes—the professional classes, the salaried classes, the thinkers and the doers of America. It attempts to "soak the rich" and ends by "soaking" those least able to bear it.

Prohibition is a tragic failure. Majority sentiment favors doing away with it in the interest of Temperance. Only a few fanatical Prohibitionists, a few timid politicians, the bootleggers, rum runners, and underworld racketeers, whom it finances, want it to remain.

The nation will move forward when these two amendments are done away with.

Loans: Common Sense And Common Justice

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Congress has adjourned, having done fairly well in view of the presidential veto, which awaited any really adequate measure for relief. The Garner-Wagner bill, as good as possible in view of the veto, is passed; and nothing like it would have been even considered on the initiative of Mr. Hoover.

Under the administration strategy to convince the public that the Democrats are anarchists, or at least communists, it is now the purpose to attack Garner because of his insistence on the publicity feature for bank loans to great financial institutions.

Garner is growing with the public enormously because of the enemies he has made. If he were an apologetic Democrat or one obsequious to great wealth, he would be patronized by the administration press; but he is a two fisted fighting man, and that makes him anathema. But not with the masses of the people.

There was a reason, and a sound one, for the incorporation of the publicity feature into the loan bill.

* * *

Only a Scandal Will Bring Publicity

First, let us dispose of the attack upon it. This is based on the proper theory that the best of banks, with the best of security, but with frozen assets, would be injured were its application for a loan to be broadcast to the country. The answer to this, and it is a sufficient answer, is that nothing of the sort will be done under the provision. It merely means that Congress, which created the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and turned billions of public money over for loans, shall be in position to know how the money is being distributed. Unless there is something scandalous in the loan there will be no publicity; if there is something scandalous, there should be publicity.

Just now there is a Senate committee, not created by Garner, but at the instance of a Republican Senator, to investigate the loans already made. The public will observe that this committee will not give publicity to any loans unless they are found to have been indefensible.

And if they are indefensible, the public ought to know.

* * *

Curious About Loans To Repay Bankers

So far as you or I know, there has been no complaint made by any responsible Democratic leader upon the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. How absurd it would be otherwise! For the Democrats voted unanimously, we think, for its creation.

There has been some criticism, not partisan in its nature, on the personnel of the board entrusted with the distribution of these billions. This has not been aimed at the character of the members, but at the fact that some of them have had close relations with some of the great institutions that have applied for or received loans.

This is such a perfectly legitimate criticism that in the bill just passed a provision to remove it has been written in without objection from any source.

Then some loans have been made that many conservative—not radical, but soundly conservative—people more than question. Thus the Missouri railroad loan of ten million which turned out to be a loan made from the public treasury to pay off a loan to J. P. Morgan & Co. There is a general feeling in the country that Morgan & Co. should have, and could have, renewed the loan; and the ten million be spent otherwise.

There is naturally some curiosity to know to what extent this sort of thing has been done.

* * *

Relief Bill Demanded Adequate Security

Then, again, the administration circles, including Ogden Mills and Mr. Hoover, raised a hue and cry against Garner and Wagner because of their proposal to increase the amount at the disposal of the R. F. C. to make it possible to loan money to any reputable business enterprise that can show it has orders that would put men to work in factories if it can get credit and can give absolutely safe security.

There was a thoroughly indefensible and intolerable misrepresentation of this provision in the bill given out by Mr. Mills and Mr. Hoover; since the Hoover statement, presumably written by Mr. Mills, charged that the money was to be loaned on "any old kind of security."

This clamor over security, adequately provided for in the Garner-Wagner bill, naturally concentrated public and senatorial attention on the kind of security demanded and received in the loans to railroads and banks.

We need not dwell here upon the particular loan of an enormous amount made to one financial institution at the instance of a very prominent Republican politician who had been a member of the board until a few days before the loan was made.

* * *

Only 'Favorites' Will Be Exposed

Now there is to be a Senatorial investigation of the security, etc., of the loans made up to this time—said to have consumed $1,600,000,000 of the two billions originally set aside from the Treasury.

Senator Couzens, Republican, is responsible for this investigation.

The investigation was voted by both Democrats and Republicans.

Were these investigators to make public the names of all the institutions asking and receiving loans, I think it would be vicious. Great numbers of sound banks, with good but frozen assets, that gave good security, and will repay the loan, are entitled to complete protection against publicity.

And they are going to get this protection.

There will be publicity only where favoritism, political or personal, has been shown, where "any old kind of security" has been given.

We can find no "radicalism" in that; that is the conservatism of common sense—the kind of "radicalism" that any private banker or business man would show.

* * *

'Forgotten Man' No Figure of Speech

So as we go on the public will analyze these partisan tirades on the "radicalism" of Roosevelt and Garner, and determine for themselves whether it is "red" and "unsound," or merely insists upon the proper protection of the whole people and equal justice to all people.

Mr. Roosevelt was pounced upon savagely as a "radical" and "unsafe" because in a speech, he mentioned the "forgotten man."

Any intelligent American who does not know what he meant and does not know that there has been a "forgotten man" in government during the Mellon tenure of 11 years would be as hard to find as the needle in a haystack.

If that is to be the issue of the campaign, the result at the polls is certain. There are too many millions who know they have, not figured in the calculations of the Hoover administration.

As far as the administration is concerned, the jobless is the "forgotten man."

The farmer is the "forgotten man."

The merchant and the average manufacturer is the "forgotten man."

The importer and exporter is the "forgotten man."

We refrain from citing the man who has absorbed the attention of the administration, for these are not times for mentioning class—except in the one sense that Roosevelt has in demanding equal consideration for every class. If that is un-American then America is no longer the America we have known.

Light as Summer Love

The Great Yellow Peril at this time of year, for a susceptible man, is a honey-gold blonde under a silver-gold moon.

Woman's inhumanity to man. Forcing a six-foot husband to fit himself into a set of this modernistic midget furniture.

* * *

The average woman is so soft and sentimental that she will forgive a man for forgetting all of his wedding vows—if only he will remember the date of his wedding in time to "say it with flowers."

You can no more judge a man's solvency by the make of his car, these days, than you can judge a woman's age by the color of her hair, or the plot of a movieplay by its title.

* * *

If a man is happily married, it is not because he set his heart on the right woman, but because the right woman set her mind on getting him before the wrong one had a chance.

* * *

No matter how much he may have worried, bullied or tormented her, somehow a woman can't help thinking of her ex-husband as a poor, neglected child, who is probably out somewhere catching cold, eating something that will disagree with him or getting all tangled up with the wrong kind of woman.

A woman may lose her last tooth, her last dollar and her last friend; but not until she loses her last illusion or her last lover does the fuse burn out in her soul.

The girl who is looking for an ideal husband can always find one; but nine times out of 10, he turns out to be some other woman's husband. Because that sort are not left lying around loose, for long, on Life's shop counter.

Once upon a time a married man was a MARRIED man—but now, he's just a prospective grass-widower.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Mid-Summer Love Song

Now when summer is at flood
Not a leaf must change,
Lest this ardor in the blood
Lessen and grow strange.

Life has granted perfect love
At this perfect hour;
Let no bluebird's bright wings move,
Let no new rose flower!

Add no silver syllable
To the vows now made;
By no glance which speaks too well
Let love be betrayed!

Joy today is potent, sure.
Touched with godlike peace;
Hearts could no fresh bliss endure,
Not a breath's increase!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 21. — There was a sharp wrench for old-time vaudevillians in seeing The Palace put out a sidewalk ticket cage and "go grind" several months ago. For years a sincerity swept across its footlights. Actors gave their best. It was their early paradise.

In many ways The Palace was the keystone of theatrical life. All sorts of players were drawn to the open forum of its Seventh avenue and Forty-seventh street corner. It was the haven of the lay-off, the curb comedian, the song plugger and booking agent. Much of the nation's slang came from there.

There was a personality about The Palace expressed only in such theaters as the Empire and New Amsterdam. Elmer E. Rogers, like all managers, seldom romanticized, guided its destinies from the opening until it became a continuous four-a-day. "Clicking" at The Palace meant a country-wide tour.

In flourishing days, it had the most gifted theatrical press agent of the time—the late Walter Kingsley. He was trained in Englishry, a soldier of fortune and a collector of art. The "Sunday celebrity nights" offered a cross-section of Broadway as homey as those around the town pump.

A master of ceremony singled out notables for a bow — Jack Dempsey or maybe Miller Huggins, Charles M. Schwab or Gene Sarazen. Everybody went to The Palace. Such wits as Frank Fay, Jack Benny, Lou Holtz and Ted Healy, in bright fixity of simper, made it jocund, preposterous. But always diverting.

* * *

The shortest street in town is Gay, in brief crescent down in The Village. It belies its name, for it is usually deserted and drab. O, yes, a Mr. Gloome lives there.

* * *

I am reliably told, the best selling novelist of the last three years reads a chapter daily from the Bible for inspiration before going to work. The last half of Chapter XXX of Proverbs has inspired more writers than anything else save, perhaps, Genesis. Kipling quotes from Chapter XXX of Proverbs in 40 stories and poems. Michael Arlen's new novel is based on a Bible verse.

* * *

Manhattan's "Death Corner" has jumped from 23d street and Broadway far northward to 7th avenue and 142d street, where more people have been killed in a given time than at any other section. The most bewildering corner, to my notion, is at 42d street and 7th avenue. I always feel, in reaching the center, the word has gone out: "There he is!" And every motor car, truck and street car makes for me.

* * *

No description yet touches that of Kin Hubbard's in summing up New York's multiple tumult. Said he: "The only way to cross a New York street is to lead a cow."

* * *

Several weeks ago, I was crossing Fifth avenue, in the manner of a lizard, darting among sunbaked stones. A few steps ahead was a portly gentleman, taking the adventure leisurely. I hopped to his side, and not until he awkwardly fumbled his cane in outward reaches at the curb, did I realize he was blind.

* * *

By the best rebuke from the crossing cops came on a Pershing square corner in Los Angeles six years ago. After a few false starts and frightened scurries back to the curb, he surveyed me calmly and inquired: "What are your plans?"

* * *

The secretary of a San Bernardino (Cal.) lawyer perpetrates an unconscious truism in a letter just received. Her employer had dictated a line about gilt-edged bonds. Naively it was typewritten: "Guilt-edged bonds."

* * *

From a red cap at Grand Central, with a mile-wide grin, this afternoon, I inquired the condition of the world as it appeared through his rose-colored glass. "Well sir, Cap'n, it's just isk always 'ceptin' it's been whittled down a little," he said, and no economist's high-blown treatise has expressed it so succinctly.

* * *

And Maj. Raymond Dixon came across a flop-eared ranch boy on the West Texas pampas, who has been short grazing thereabouts, and is a lad after my heart. After listening to a group of irreverent questioners of authority thresh out the perversities of the times, he meekly drawled: "It looks to me like it's about time for them to cut out all this relief stuff and give us a little help."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

He can't understand why he has lost his job. Hard times, of course. Lots of people out of work. But other fellows in his office have been kept on. Then why should he be let off?

Some of those other fellows haven't been there half as long as he has. None of them has worked any harder than he has. They've grumbled about overtime. He hasn't grumbled. They've kicked at taking on extra responsibility. He hasn't kicked.

In fact, if he does say it himself, there hasn't been a more obliging fellow in the whole firm than himself. He has always done everything the boss wanted, and now this is the thanks he gets.

Yes, he's bitter, and he's honestly bewildered. Why should a man be fired after he's tried so hard to please? That's the answer.

HE HAS TRIED SO HARD TO PLEASE EVERYONE ELSE—TO THINK AS EVERYONE ELSE THINKS—THAT HE NO LONGER HAS ANY THOUGHTS OF HIS OWN. HE HAS BECOME A MAN WITHOUT INDIVIDUALITY OR INITIATIVE — JUST ANOTHER RUBBER STAMP.

Now, rubber stamp people are delightful to have around, when times are easy and we can indulge in such pleasing frills. It's flattering to anyone's egotism to have a satelite who will always echo His Master's Voice. But when the pinch comes, we want people who have voices of their own; who can create new ideas to meet new emergencies.

So out go the amiable but meaningless Rubber Stamps, and the disagreeable but competent Self Starters are given the jobs.

THE MAN WHO MEANS SOMETHING IN HIMSELF IS THE MAN WHO GETS THE JOB AND HOLDS IT. SOONER OR LATER, THE PLEASING PARASITE GETS THE CAN.

And every human being can mean something in himself—something unique and valuable which the world needs. There is no such thing as a "common" man unless he makes himself common by his own laziness and cowardice.

We are all born UNCOMMON.

Each one of us is made on a different pattern.

Each one of us has a special power.

It may not be a spectacular power. It may merely be the knack for doing some simple thing well. But the simplest act has peculiar virtue and power if it is the product of our own initiative and imagination; and, on the other hand, the most elaborate act is meaningless if it lacks originality.

SO THE WORLD WANTS THE PERSON WHO MEANS SOMETHING TO HIMSELF, AND WHO HAS THE COURAGE TO EXPRESS THAT SOMETHING AND NOT MERELY APE OR ECHO SOME OTHER MAN.

Such a person won't fail in a pinch. His assets can't be taken from him. He carries them with him, in his heart and his brain, and the whole weak, wobbly world leans on him.

Don't be a Rubber Stamp Person. Don't try to duplicate some other person's thought or personality.

BE YOUR OWN KIND OF A PERSON.

Even if you're only a dishwasher, use your own methods of dishwashing. Make your own decisions and your own plan.

They may be ordinary jobs at first, and the breaks may not come very fast.

BUT YOU'LL BE HAVING A GOOD TIME WHILE YOU'RE WAITING. FOR YOU'LL BE MAKING AND BOSSING YOUR OWN LITTLE WORLD.

AND THAT WORLD WILL STAND STEADY WHEN THE BIG WIND COMES AND BLOWS ALL THE COPY-CATS AND RUBBER STAMPS AND YES-MEN AWAY.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

You may not be satisfied with some of your son's or daughter's pals.

You may think they exercise poor judgment in selection of intimates.

You want them to choose from what you think of as a higher grade of society than that in which they move.

Your children should cultivate the acquaintance of the prominent persons in your city, through their sons and daughters, as you put it.

Because they do not, you are displeased and censure them.

Do you, yourself, follow the principle of choosing your friends because of their social and financial standing?

Is this your idea of friendship?

Perhaps your young people have a more sensible and correct idea of choosing those with whom they wish to associate.

They make their selections because of recognized real worth, congeniality and mutual understanding of companionship.

If those they find companionable belong to the families of prominent persons, it is a coincidence, not a sought-for alliance.

But why try to force your children to seek the society of those for whom they have not the feeling of true friendship?

ISN'T IT SO?

Nothing is as satisfying as a scratched itch.

It takes more than loud clothes to make a man the big noise.

Many of the lads of today seem to be studying for a career as night watchmen.

The lucky man at many a wedding is the bride's father.

When a jury turns a man loose he thinks it is a grand jury.

The man who hopes to leave his footprints on the sands of time must have the sand to begin with.
